Dead Boy's Mother Forgives

George Carnes, 8, asks forgiveness of Mrs. Catherine Mernin, mother of the playmate, John, 9, he accidentally shot to death while playing with a revolver. The dead boy's father sits with head bowed at right. Young Carnes said at the inquest in Chicago that he did not know the gun was loaded and pulled the trigger at John's request. The death was ruled accidental.

Keep Atom Secret, Churchill Warns

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Winston Churchill expressed conviction today that Russia would not share the atomic bomb secret if she alone held it, and urged Prime Minister Attlee in his forthcoming Washington talks to bring no "pressure" on the United States to divulge the bomb's production details.

"I am sure," Churchill said, "that were the circumstances reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to Russian arsenals, it would not be granted."

The former prime minister mentioned assistance furnished the Russians during the war, including radar "and other matters," and said he was "not conscious of any considerable reciprocity."

But he declared in almost the same breath:

"Any idea of Britain deliberately pursuing an anti-Russian policy or taking part in making a combination to the detriment of Russia is thoroughly opposed to British thought and conscience.

"Nothing but a long period of marked injuries and antagonisms could develop any such matter again in this land."

Opening Common's first full dress debate on foreign policy since Britain's Labor government assumed power, Churchill, as leader of the Conservative opposition, praised Stalin as a "great man," and said the Russian leader "is still strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship."

Churchill expressed hope Britain would adhere to the 12-point American foreign policy program enunciated by President Truman in New York on Navy Day.

"We should make clear to the United States," Britain's wartime prime minister said, "that we will march at their side in the cause President Truman has defined. This is our chance of survival and it may even be of safety and, with safety, a vast extension of prosperity."

Saying that Britain should help the United States guard the atomic bomb "as a sacred trust for the maintenance of peace," Churchill nevertheless declared at one point Britain "should make atomic bombs ourselves and have them here, even if manufactured elsewhere, in suitable safe storage, with the least possible delay."

He asserted the future of the atomic bomb should be decided by parliaments and responsible governments and "not by scientists, however eminent or ardent they may be."

"I hope Great Britain, Canada and the United States will adhere to the policy declared by President Truman to keep the knowledges of processes as a sacred trust . . ." he said.

In solemn tones, Churchill said: "I cannot bring myself to visualize another world war.

"My heart is not carefree when I look out upon the scene.

"The valley is indeed dark and the dangers most menacing," cried Churchill. "Yet we know that not very far away are broad uplands of an assured peace. Can we reach them? We must reach them. It is our sole duty."

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin appealed to the world's great powers today "to put their cards on the table face upwards" in an effort to establish international peace.

"We are ready to do it," Bevin declared amid cheers.

Atomic Engineers Ask Tests

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Nov. 7 (AP)—Atomic engineers of Oak Ridge say there is no effective defense against the atomic bomb and ask that widespread tests on the potency of the weapon be carried out before legislation on atomic energy is passed by Congress.

The group unanimously adopted a resolution calling for:

(1) A report by all congressmen and public leaders who have inspected Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

(2) A national monument at the site of the atomic bomb test in New Mexico and encouragement of visits there by the public.

(3) Tests of atomic bomb on captured ships in the presence of congressmen and newsmen.

The group also urged the bombs be tested on modern steel and concrete construction of fortifications, both above and below ground.

Stalin Absent at Red Army Anniversary Parade

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin, for the first time since he became the leader of Soviet Russia, failed to attend the massive parade of soldiers and civilians in Red sq., celebrating the anniversary of the Socialist revolution.

Stalin broke a precedent earlier by allowing Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov to deliver the "state of the nation" address at St. Andrew Hall in the Kremlin. Stalin did not attend. Foreign diplomats suggested perhaps he remained away to take none of the attention from Molotov.

Stalin was reported yesterday to have returned to Moscow from a month-long vacation in South Russia.

Troops and civilian marchers started pouring through Red sq. around noon and streets for miles around were filled with tanks, armored cars, parachutists, infantrymen, cadets, sailors, motorcycle units and mobile gun groups, all filing past the tomb of Lenin.

Workers by the thousands carried bannesr and slogans.

Newspapers carried greetings from world leaders on this 28th anniversary of the revolution, but messages from President Truman and State Secretary Byrnes were conspicuously missing.

Congratulations of Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Sec. Ernest Bevin of Britain were featured prominently in Izvestia, which also carried a message from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. In past years messages from President Roosevelt have been prominently displayed.

Nearly half the front pages of the newspapers were occupied by a photograph of Stalin in a white summer uniform jacket, wearing his golden star of hero of Soviet labor. The photograph appeared to be recent. It bore no caption. Stalin will be 66 on Dec. 21.

Much of the remaining newspaper space was devoted to Molotov's address, in which he asserted the secret of atomic energy should be a worldwide matter and not confined to any single nation or group of nations.

Millions heard the speech by radio last night; it was read and re-read by announcers again this morning.

Rioters Kill 74 Jews, One Arab

CAIRO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The British ministry of information announced today 74 Jews and one Arab had been killed in anti-Jewish outbreaks in Tripolitania.

Troops and police in Tripoli, metropolitan center of the Italian colony in North Africa, were ordered to "shoot all looters and fire if necessary in order to disperse groups of more than five persons."

With support of the Arab League, Libyans are seeking independence from Italy.

Russia openly expressed interest in some form of control over Tripolitana during the conference of five foreign ministers in London, indicating she might ask a share in administering that colony and Eritrea.

CIO Asks Wage Plan at Parley

By PHILLIPS J. PECK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (INS)—CIO President Philip Murray again interjected the wage issue into the national labor-management conference today.

Murray told reporters, as the important executive committee of the conference assembled for its first meeting, that he would attempt to bring up the wage question. The committee will decide whether the conference shall consider the subject.

Murray said he did not ask the conference to decide on any particular percentage increase, but that he wanted it to recognize the principle that industry's profit position is such that it can raise wages without increasing prices.

"I believe it would solve most of the unrest in the country if employers would meet with labor and proceed forthwith to negotiate with regard to wages," the CIO leader stated.

AFL President William Green, also a member of the executive committee, reiterating opposition to a conference discussion of wages he said the parley had no authority to talk about wages and should work out procedure for minimizing disputes so the workers could go ahead and bargain individually.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, questioned on the wage controversy, said, "I will cross that bridge when I get to it."

Murray also disclosed that in subsequent meetings of the executive committee he plans to raise the issue of job discrimination against minority groups on the basis of race.

Jap Girl Slapped For Dating Yank

TOKYO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today a Jap sailor struck a Japanese girl in downtown Hibiuya Park for dating an American soldier, calling it the first open show of resentment against fraternization.

The sailor was turned over to Tokyo police and the girl treated for a split lip.

American soldiers saw nine Japanese sailors slap Japanese girls with Americans, but a military police patrol failed to locate eight of them.

China Reds Seize Yanks From Ship

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7 (AP)—The reported seizure by Chinese Communists of several American crewmen from a liberty ship in the Chinwangtao area today brought a prompt news blackout in U. S. Army headquarters in Shanghai.

Reporters, dependent on British sources, were told seamen were seized by Chinese Communists, but released with apologies.

CIO Leader Asks Halt Of Auto Price Boosts

DETROIT, Nov. 7 (AP)—Walter P. Reuther, vice-president of the CIO Automobile Workers' Union, today asked President Truman to delay price increases on 1946 automobiles "pending a review by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion."

Reuther suggested in a telegram that labor and management be heard by government agencies dealing with price ceilings.

Curley Tells Program; Seeks Army Piers First

James M. Curley, elected to a fourth term as mayor of Boston by one of the largest pluralities ever given a mayoralty candidate here, today began to fulfill his campaign pledge to "get things done."

Flushed with his great victory, the mayor-elect told reporters at his Jamaicaway home that this is his program:

1—Go to Washington Friday to get the Army and Navy to turn over one-half of the Army Base for Boston shipping to the Boston Port Authority.

2—Start intensive improvements so that Boston will be a No. 1 sea and air center.

3—Draft plans to meet all the needs of the city and its citizens. Will call to his side as advisors the best brains in the State and city regardless of politics.

4—See that Boston gets all that it is entitled to in federal and state assistance to meet all postwar problems.

5—Figure ways and means to bring industries here so that people can get work. Lower taxes to keep rents down.

6—Clean out City Hall.

Curley placed the need for the Army Base at the top of his list of things to be done immediately to restore Boston to its pre-eminence among the nation's cities.

"I'm going to Washington Friday with Chairman Henry J. Nichols of the Port Authority to arrange with the War Department for release of at least half of the Army Base to the city," he declared.

"The Army and Navy have got it all now and it is absolutely imperative that Boston get use of it as soon as possible.

"In the past 14 days, there have been 10 steamers which were unable to discharge cargo due to the lack of proper wharf and storage space."

He said the planning committee of civic leaders would operate along the same lines which "proved so successful under our late President, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Discussing that phase of his program, Curley pointed out that the national group effected highly successful plans for reforestation and flood control. He said the success of that system proved it would be of great value when it was adapted to Bostoon.

About cleaning out city hall, the mayor-elect smilingly commented:

"Yes, I think it needs it badly."

Asked when he expected to assume his post as mayor, he replied:

"I'll take the job when I am legally able to do so."

Throughout the interview by more than a score of reporters,

Surprises Rife in Vote Of 18 Cities

Complete returns from 18 of the 20 cities outside of Boston which held municipal elections revealed a number of close contests and several surprises today both in mayoral races and in contests for lesser city posts.

QUINCY

Mayor Charles A. Ross was re-elected by a plurality of 6281 votes over Joseph Kendrick, City Council president. The voters piled up a total of 15,369 votes for the incumbent against Kendrick's 9088. Ross carried Ward I by almost two to one, polling 3473 against 1726 for his opponent. Ward 3 gave Ross an almost 3 to 1 margin with 2260 votes to 889 for Ross.

A referendum on raising the mayor's salary from $5000 to $6000 and on boosting the pay of city councilors from $500 to $1000 was defeated by 359 votes. The totals were 8536 in favor to 8915 opposed.

In the councilor-at-large race, in which six candidates battled for three posts, Christian Burkhard, Russell T. Bates and Frank M. Orcutt were elected. Burkhard led the field with 11,261 ballots; Bates

Four Vets in New Council

Election of four World War II veterans to the Boston City Council, and overwhelming defeat of an equal number of present members, highlighted one of the hottest council contests in years, with nearly 70 candidates vieing for seats.

Among the winning war veterans was Thomas E. Linehan, former Council president, who left that position for Pacific service in the Navy as a lieutenant and has recently been serving as Mayor Kerrigan's legislative agent at the State House. Victor over six opponents in Ward 7, Linehan takes the seat to be vacated by the defeated mayor.

One of the most surprising council upsets was the stunning defeat administered to Councilor Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton, close personal friend of Gov. Tobin. In the Ward 22 contest Sullivan was snowed under by Maj. Ted Madden, discharged Army veteran, who polled 6084 votes to Sullivan's 3691.

Sullivan has on many occasions publicly defended Gov. Tobin against his critics, and political observers interpret his defeat as a rebuke administered by the anti-Tobin faction in the city.

The three other defeated members were Matthew F. Hanley of Jamaica Plain, absent on service with the Navy, in Ward 11; Thomas G. J. Shannon of West Roxbury; William F. Dwyer in Ward 21, ousted by Edmund V. Lane. Dwyer had devoted much of his

Kerrigan Carries On as Mayor

Mayor Kerrigan said this morning:

"My job for the present is to carry out my duties as mayor of the city of Boston. I intend to carry out those duties to the best of my ability until my successor assumes his duties. The mayor's duties are a full-time job and I intend to give my full time to administering the affairs of the city of Boston. After I have completed my term of office I shall then give consideration to personal plans."

Foley, Ward Top School Race

Out of a field of 10 candidates, Dr. Patrick J. Foley of South Boston and Michael J. Ward of Brighton were re-elected to the Boston School Committee, in a landslide vote that gave the runner-up third place to the only woman candidate in the contest, Mrs. Gladys Shapiro, West End attorney.

Dr. Foley led the field with a total of 80,108, while Ward, the present committee chairman, returned a winner with 75,075 votes.

Mrs. Shapiro, with a total of 42,333 votes, gained third place and held it in the face of spirited competition from three male contenders. She carried Ward 14 with a total of 10,654, which was only 542 less than the combined total of the other nine candidates.

Although Ward carried 12 of the city's 22 wards to Foley's 10, the latter's vote in Wards 6 and 7 placed him better than 5000 ahead of Ward in the complete tally. Ward 6 gave Foley 5096 to Ward's 2014, and in Ward 7 the count was 6798 for Foley and 3137 for Ward.

Otis Archer Hood, legislative secretary of the Communist party of Massachusetts, surprised by polling a total of 26,693 in the final returns.

Totals of the other candidates were: Robert J. Sullivan of Hyde Park, 37,573; George V. Kenneally of Dorchester, teacher and football coach at Revere High School, 33,257; William J. Kelly of East Boston, 30,882; Edmund J. Walsh, Boston insurance executive, 26,124; Elias J. Stewart, Boston dentist, 17,575, and John W. Drury, 16,838.

Dr. Foley has served almost continuously on the school committee since 1937, when he was appointed by the committee to succeed Dr. Charles E. Mackey on the latter's death. It was the second term election for Chairman Ward.

Vote Results Give Democrats Cheer

By The Associated Press

Democrat William O'Dwyer's election as mayor of New York City, with his vote far exceeding the aggregate of his opposition, prompted Democratic leaders today to see good things ahead for the party in the state and nationally. They saw in it a decline in the political fortunes of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Republicans withheld comment.

In the second municipal scrap that captured more than local attention in yesterday's first post-war voting, Mayor Edward J. Jeffries was elected to a fourth term in Detroit's hot non-partisan mayoralty race against Richard T. Frankensteen, CIO union leader. Complete returns from the city's 1136 precincts gave Jeffries 274,802 to Frankensteen's 217,208.

Wm. O'Dwyer

Frankensteen had the active backing of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Democrats elected these mayors elsewhere: David L. Lawrence, national committeeman for Pennsylvania, in Pittsburgh, and incumbent Thomas A. Burke at Cleveland.

A Democrat, E. Leland Taylor, was leading the race for mayor of Louisville.

Republicans, after 14 years on the outside, swept into control of the city government of New Haven, Ct., electing William G. Gelantano as mayor. Cornelius A. Moylan, a Republican, was chosen as mayor of Hartford, but Waterbury picked a Democrat, John S. Monagan.

Bridgeport kept its Socialist mayor, Jasper McLevy, elected for his seventh consecutive term.

Republicans won the mayoralties of Syracuse and Buffalo with Frank J. Costello and Bernard J. Dowd, respectively, but Democrats showed considerable strength in other upstate New York cities.

In the only major congressional contest of the day—the fourth New Jersey district—Republicans retained control of the seat resigned by D. Lane Powers. Frank A. Mathews, Jr., organization G. O. P. candidate won by 10,573 in a three-man race. Frank S. Katzenbach, 3d, regular Democratic nominee, was second.

The 24th Illinois district also elected a Republican to Congress—Roy Clippinger—but he had no major opposition.

The Mathews victory in New Jersey made the House lineup: Democrats 241, Republicans 191, American Labor 1, Progressive 1, vacancy (in New Mexico) 1.

In the only gubernatorial contest, Lt. Gov. William M. Tuck (D.) was elected Governor of Virginia by more than two to one over two opponents. He carried his ticket with him, including Lewis Preston Collins for Lieutenant Governor, and A. P. Staples, re-elected as Attorney General.

Bridal Beating Frees Hub WAVE

After describing a turbulent three-day honeymoon, Mrs. Ruth Feldman Cohen of Everett ave., Dorchester, a former WAVE, today was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty from her Army husband, Seymour Cohen, by Judge John V. Mahoney in Suffolk Probate Court.

The attractive one-time WAVE, now a civilian employe at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, testified she was married Dec. 20, 1941, and on that very night her husband stayed away and would give no explanation. She said he beat her the next day and vanished the day following, never to see her again.

Suspect Admits He Used Gun

James R. Brown, 20, and Alex E. Willis, 22, Negroes, of Hamlet, N. C., were held in $10,000 each for the grand jury today by Judge Elias Shamon in municipal court, after they pleaded not guilty to two charges of armed robbery in Boston holdups.

Nathan Binder, proprietor of a Columbus ave., South End, store, testified the pair robbed him of $119 at gunpoint. Then one, whom he identified as Brown, dragged him into a back room of the store and clubbed him unconscious, he said. Binder said Brown carried the gun used in the holdup.

Willis interrupted the testimony by declaring, "I was the one who had the gun."

Henry Dame, another Columbus ave. store owner, testified the defendants had held him up, one holding a gun, and had taken $112 from him. He identified Brown as the gun holder.

Again Willis spoke up to say, "No, sir, I had the gun."

Starvation Under Yamashita Told

MANILA, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Japanese operated Santo Thomas civilian prison camp under a "planned program of starvation" for approximately 4000 internees, Magazine Editor A. V. H. Hartendorp testified today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

The Japanese commandant refused to hear internees' complaints because he said Japan did not recognize the Geneva convention.

Hartendorp told the U. S. military commission hearing charges that Yamashita permitted wholesale brutalities by his command, that his own weight dropped from 170 to 106 pounds.

A bill of particulars covering the Santo Tomas case from Oct. 9, 1944, through the liberation Feb. 2, 1945, charges the Japanese with wilful failure and refusal to provide food and medical supplies to more than 3000 civilian internees. It also specifies that internee Ford Wilkins, former city editor of the Manila Bulletin and New York Times correspondent, was beaten and tortured, and charges the execution "without cause or trial" of more than six internees.

Referendum Balks Council Pay Raise

Boston voters who have often found it hard in the past to say "No" shouted it in a loud voice today in their balloting on a referendum for giving city councilors a $1500 pay increase.

The vote was more than two to one against the increase, referendum totals being: Yes 56,857; No 128,164.

There was no indication in the innocuous wording of the referendum that a "Yes" vote would give councilors a 75 per cent pay hike in their $2000 annual salaries.

All that the referendum asked was a "Yes" or "No" answer on the question:

"Shall an Act passed by the General Court in the current year, entitled 'An Act establishing the compensation of the members of the city council of the City of Boston,' be accepted?"

Not only did this double talk fail to explain how much the compensation of a councilor would be, but it also neglected to say that the increase would be retroactive to last Jan. 1, giving present council members a neat little $1500 Christmas gift from the taxpayers.

In passing the Act that would establish a councilor's salary at $3500 instead of the present $2000, the Legislature set no precedent.

It generously voted its own members a $500 annual pay increase during the same session.

Boston voters showed today what they thought of the whole idea.

They had no trouble at all in voicing a resounding "NO" to the legislative generosity which would add $33,000 annually to their municipal expenses, and showed they didn't think it was worth it.

Jail Wife-Beater Who Avows Love

Despite an emotional appeal in which he assured the court he loved his wife and would not harm her, John J. Kennedy of Lydon st., Dorchester, today lost his appeal from a six-months' sentence imposed for assault and battery.

Mrs. Anna F. Kennedy of Neponset ave., Roslindale, told Judge John E. Swift in Suffolk Superior Court she feared her husband. When the court suggested a suspended sentence, Mrs. Kennedy objected:

"I am afraid of him. I am afraid to sleep." She said he beat her and constantly threatened her.

Kennedy asked the permission to speak.

"The trouble with me is I can never get it into my heart and mind that it is all over between us," he said. "Even if I go away I love her."

As Kennedy was led from the courtroom he waved to his wife and she waved back.

Colonel vs. Colonel in Tokyo

TOKYO, Nov. 7 (AP)—You see many colonel's eagles now, few battle medals for valor. Officers top-heavy with rank have engaged in many petty social battles. Here is one of the silliest:

A colonel playing cards in the lobby of a Tokyo Army hotel became annoyed at the music from a near-by radio, called the desk clerk who was an enlisted man, and said sharply: "Turn that thing off."

When the soldier complied, another colonel immediately came over bristling and declared: "Turn that radio back on."

The soldier explained the other colonel had ordered him to turn off the music whereupon the colonel replied: "My date of rank is (such and such). Please go over to the other colonel and ascertain his time in grade."

The soldier, caught in the middle of this "battle of the brass," went off and returned with a well-hidden grin.

"Sir," he said, "the radio stays off. He outranks you."

SOLDIER INJURED IN STORM CARRIED FROM TRANSPORT AT COMMONWEALTH PIER

Two Killed, 10 Others Hurt Aboard Westminster Victory En Route Home

2 Storm Dead, 11 Hurt Aboard Hub Troop Ship

The Army-manned transport Westminster Victory, carrying 1945 men, including 85 New Englanders, docked at Commonwealth Pier today with its crew and passengers not disposed to wave and cheer in the hilarious manner of most men arriving from the European theater.

Before they disembarked, litter bearers carried off five soldiers who had been so badly injured during a storm Monday night they were transported in ambulances to Camp Myles Standish, Taunton.

On board were the bodies of two more men, killed during the same storm while they were only 450 miles from Boston. The dead were T-Sgt. Loran Van Buskirk and Sgt. Jeremiah J. Crane, both of Los Angeles.

Six other men, injured, were nevertheless in condition to make the trip to Standish by rail.

The transport's commander, Capt. Harry Lee Anstey, said the ship encountered such a heavy storm and high seas that "braces and lashes" gave way in the compartment where the accident occurred.

Soldiers who were in the compartment said the deaths and injuries were caused when a stack of 12-foot beams, 10 feet high, in the center of the compartment, plunged from its failing supports and crashed into the victims.

They said several hundred men were sleeping on the deck in their blankets, for lack of other accommodations.

Before the ship docked the Army set up a board of investigation to obtain details on the tragedy.

The Westminster Victory was the 328th troop transport to dock here since VE Day. It brought to 460,000 the veterans who have disembarked at Boston.

Victim Identifies Parolee

Gunless Bandit Gets 4 to 6 Years

Ability of his victim to pick him out from a group of 12 prisoners in the dock at the Suffolk Courthouse today caused George A. Thompson, 32, of Oakdale sq., Jamaica Plain, state prison parolee, to plead guilty before Judge John E. Swift to unarmed robbery.

Thompson, a cook in the merchant marine, robbed Mrs. Laura Poppleton, 50, of Custer st., Jamaica Plain, in her variety store on last June 1.

After Mrs. Poppleton identified Thompson, he pleaded guilty and sentence of four to six years in state prison was imposed, to run concurrently with 18 years he must serve for violated parole.

Coe's 1st Tells Of 2nd Quickie

Martin Van Buren Coe, wealthy Worcester mill owner and socialite, married again in Reno, Nov., only 15 minutes after he obtained a divorce from his wife, Katherine, it was charged here today before Justice Arthur Dolan of the State Supreme Court.

The revelation was the newest in a three-year-old court tangle, during which the troubles of the Coes were aired in at least three courts.

It came just before Judge Dolan ordered a stay of proceedings in Worcester Probate Court where the first Mrs. Coe now has brought action, charging that her ex-husband was behind in support payments.

The story of an immediate marriage was told by Francis McKeon, counsel for the first Mrs. Coe, although the name of the new wife wasn ot revealed.

At one time in the many court actions, Mrs. Coe No. 1 named as correspondent a Miss Dawn Allen, her husband's secretary, before Judge Carl E. Wahlstrom of Worcester.

The latter found, in writing off their marriage as "a total loss," that Coe was a "playboy" and that his wife had "bargained for marital security and sold herself too cheaply."

Of Dawn, Judge Wahlstrom said: "Miss Allen is one of those women who is always looking for something. She is a cold, calculating, shrewd woman who played her cards well."

'Miss Allen had insisted that her relationship with her employer was entirely of a business nature.

Hunt for Heir Ends; Ransom Bid Invited

By JANE COCHRAN

DOWNIEVILLE, Cal., Nov. 7 (INS)—The family of little Dickie tum Suden, in the slight hope that the missing boy may have been kidnaped, today came out with an appeal for possible abductors to make contact.

Searchers for the 3-year-old heir to fortunes on both sides of the family were called off and the way was cleared for kidnapers to approach the family without any interference.

Dickie's maternal grandfather, A. L. Merritt, gold mine owner, made his appeal through the press. He said the search through the rugged mountain terrain for six days has been without success.

He admitted that there is no "assurance that the course we will follow will meet with success."

County authorities were convinced that if the boy could have been found, living or dead, in the precipitous timber land around this old mining town, a foot-by-foot search conducted by hundreds of troops and mountaineers would have been successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph tum Suden, the boy's parents, and Merritt tacitly agreed that there was not the slightest point in pursuing the search.

The family's action simply was based on a last, million-to-one prayer that the golden-haired lad had been spirited away.

The unofficial force of FBI men on the scene was doubled today by the arrival of two more agents. Predictions were that the FBI actively would take over the case tomorrow or Thursday.

Pay Plan Boosts State Bond Total

The success of payroll savings plans in Massachusetts is helping the State keep well ahead in the Victory Loan campaign, the State War Finance Committee announced today.

Sale of series E bonds reached $6,173,000 at the close of business Tuesday in Greater Boston. The figure represents 15.7 per cent of the 39,292,500 quota set for this area.

For the entire state sales of $9,600,000 are reported by the Treasury Dept. This is 14.8 per cent of the Bay State quota set at $65,000,000. Individual sales of $25,100,000, representing 19.3 per cent of the state's quota of $130,000,000, are also reported.

The progress of this drive and all other drives to date is due in great part, the State War Finance Committee declares, to the work of its payroll savings division comprising volunteer and permanent staff members who regularly cover the industrial plants of the State.

Fumigation Gas Kills Baby, Fells 8

DETROIT, Nov. 7 (AP)—Detectives said today fumes from recently fumigated furniture apparently caused the death last night of a six-month-old boy and hospitalized his eight brothers and sisters, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Reinhart.

Reinhart told police that before moving into a housing project Tuesday, in compliance with federal regulations he arranged to have the furniture fumigated en route.

The moving company told police they fumigated with a cyanide gas in a closed van.

Mrs. Reinhart was awakened shortly before midnight Tuesday by the cries of one of the children. She found Terence unconscious and the others ill.

Hotel Plunge Kills Boy, 8, Mother

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7 (AP)—Deputy Coroner James Hart said Mrs. Katherine Donley, wife of Robert Donley, an announcer at radio station WINS in New York, and the couple's eight-year-old son, James Patrick Donley, were killed today in a plunge from the 12th floor of the William Penn Hotel.

Hart said Mrs. Donley left a note describing domestic difficulties and saying "I can't see my way."

Sagansky Pardon Hearing Nov. 21

At Gov. Tobin's request, the Advisory Board of Pardons will conduct a hearing at the State House Nov. 21 on the application of Harry "Doc" Sagansky, Brookline, for a pardon in connection with his conviction on number pool charges March 13, 1945.

Sagansky, who was sentenced to state prison for 2½ to 2 years, was paroled Sept. 17.

Lord Haw Haw Loses Appeal From Death

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—William Joyce, "Lord Haw Haw" on the German radio, today was denied an appeal from his conviction for treason.

Joyce, under sentence of death, took the decision with outward calm. The next step will be an attempt to bring the case before the House of Lords.

Divorce Bout of 'Red Dawn' Author, Professor on Again

The divorce roundelay of Mrs. Adele Blonden Sheffer of Winthrop and Beacon Hill, author of "Red Dawn," comes up for further decision Dec. 4 when her husband, Prof. Henry M. Sheffer of Harvard, has his day in court.

Judge John V. Mahoney today in Suffolk Probate Court set that date for hearing of the professor's divorce petition on grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Sheffer decided she didn't want the professor any more in March, 1942, when she won a divorce and $4500 settlement. But a few months later, before the decree became absolute, she changed her mind.

Judge Frederick J. Dillon refused to let her reconsider, however, and ruled she had acted "in bad faith" and must remain divorced.

But the Massachusetts Supreme Court overruled Judge Dillon and now Prof. Sheffer feels it is his turn.

Paris Calm Over Le Havre GI Ban

PARIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—A U. S. Army order barring American soldiers from all public places in Le Havre, now extended to a 500-square-mile area, was published prominently on the front pages of French newspapers today with stories charging crimes by wearers of U. S. uniforms.

Newspapers said robberies and assaults by men in American uniforms totalled as many as 30 a night in Paris.

One paper proposed to dub Paris "The City of Insecurity," to match Le Havre's nickname of "The Port of Bitter Men."

There were no anti-American comments, the press pointing out a GI uniform could be a convenient disguise.

Army Probes $250,000 Fire

Army authorities opened an investigation today into the $250,000 general alarm blaze which destroyed three warehouses and large stores of Army surplus material at the Engineers Depot in Arlington st., Framinghtam.

The fire, starting from an unknown cause in a small shed last night, raged out of control for more than two hours as firemen from Natick and Ashland and a detachment of Cushing General Hospital soldiers aided the Framingham department.

Hot air explosions shook the neighborhood and scattered the flames through the warehouses, heavily stocked with Army fire fighting apparatus and engineering equipment. Visible for miles, the fire attracted 10,000 people.

Dorchester Boy's Body Found on Rails

The body of Francis Frawley, 7, of Water st., Dorchester, was found today between the rails of the inbound tracks just beyond the Fields Corner station en route to Savin Hill. Identification was made by the boy's father, Francis A. Frawley.

Byron Daniels of Shepton st., Dorchester, motorman on the first inbound train from Ashmont, discovered the body.

'Sky the Limit' For Hub Port, Experts Predict

Foreign trade specialists of the New York Central and Boston & Albany railroads today began a two-day conference at the Algonquin Club with the prediction that "the sky's the limit" for Boston's postwar port possibilities.

Presiding was Arthur E. Baylis, New York Central traffic manager for foreign freight.

"We are conferring here in Boston with an eye to increasing foreign trade at this port," Baylis said.

"There is no limit to the amount of business that can come to Boston if the people want it and will prepare for it."

Leaders said heavy imports of coZee, spices and wool again are coming to Boston from South America. They added that exports, too, are growing daily, although most outgoing freight is Europe-bound.

Boston now serves as an export link for the large mid-West markets and represented at the conference are experts from Washington, Montreal, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Cincinnati.

Tomorrow the visitors will inspect the Boston & Albany piers in East Boston, as well as all the facilities of the port. Officials of the road said many of the facilities held by the government during the war gradually have been turned back since the war's end and that others are expected to be ready for postwar civilian business soon.

Among those who will act as hosts during the two-day conference are R. G. Henderson, freight traffic manager of the Boston & Albany, and H. O. Lwnch, foreign freight agent of the same railroad.

U. S. Strikes At a Glance

By Associated Press

Two hundred seventy thousand workers are away from jobs in the nation's labor disputes. Major developments:

TRANSPORTATION — Washington street car and bus employes vote to go back to work, ending "continuous union meeting"; Greyhound bus lines in 27 states remained tied up and Midwest employes take strike vote; 500 employes in 26 Reading (Pa.) trucking firms walk out.

RUBBER—Production halted at two main plants of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. in Akron, O., as workers refuse to pass picket lines.

MACHINISTS — Three labor councils in San Francisco Bay area to decide whether some 40,000 members will continue to observe picket lines; 4000 to 5000 Seattle machinists to stop work Friday to consider asking 30 per cent wage hike.

LUMBER — New deadlock involving 60,000 strikers as union group rejects compromise wage boost.

STEEL — Republic Steel Corp. asked National Labor Relations Board to disregard a CIO steel workers' request for a strike.

Cost-of-Living Pay Is GM Offer

DETROIT, Nov. 7 (AP)—General Motors offered today to adjust the wages of certain classifications of employes so resultant increases would be in proportion to the cost of living increase since 1941.

The corporation, in a counter-proposal to the 30 per cent wage rate boost demanded by the CIO, said it was making its offer on the basis of President Truman's wage-price policy speech.

"This means," the corporation said in a statement by C. E. Wilson, president, as wage negotiations began, "that the standard of living of our factory employes will have been maintained in spite of war and difficulties of post-war reconstruction.

"Whether the cost of living and basic wage rates can be kept in line in the future will depend on whether the people of our country are willing to work for the things they would like to have."

N. E. Labor Picture Darkens

New England's labor picture remained troubled today, with new walkouts and threats of strikes canceling gains made toward harmony in the settlement of several disturbances. The textile situation remained gloomy in Maine, where five of nine mills remained closed and union leaders accused State Labor Comr. Jesse W. Taylor of "blundering badly" in his announcement that union shop and insurance demands were "out of the picture as far as employers are concerned."

George M. Jabar, Maine CIO director, immediately asserted that Taylor, named by Gov. Horace Hildreth to mediate the textile difficulties, had "failed to do the job for which he was called." George Carignan, chairman of the Biddeford-Saco joint board of the CIO, declared the situation had "gone beyond Taylor's jurisdiction."

Earlier, Rep. Louis Jalbert, Lewiston Republican, had attacked Taylor in a letter to Gov. Hildreth, charging he was not "giving full concentrated effort to the issue at hand."

On the brighter side of the picture, two Connecticut mills signed contracts with the Textile Workers' Union of America, CIO, leaving only one plant in that state affected by the strike, which began last Friday.

Four southern Massachusetts and Rhode Island mills also signed contracts, but strikes still are in effect at three others in that area with 5000 idle.

Continuing strikes are those of the Greyhound Bus Co., affecting all New England and states east of the Mississippi; the 10-day walkout of 8000 Brown and Sharpe Co. employes in Providence, and the five-day strike of the Sprague Electric Co.'s 1800 workers in North Adams.

Latest walkouts included Portland, Me., longshoremen and Westfield textile workers.

Also threatening was a resumption of the walkout of 40 drivers of the Interstate Buses Corp., who halted a strike a week ago, pending arbitration, only to meet a flat company refusal to accept the arbitrator's decision that a discharged driver must be rehired.

Senator Insists On Draft Halt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Sen. Revercomb (D.) of West Virginia, said today that unless the Army and Navy quit drafting men this week, Congress should proceed immediately to end Selective Service itself.

Revercomb, a member of the Senate Military Committee, told a reporter figures show that the draft can roll to a dead stop without impairing occupation forces.

This comment was in amplification of a Senate speech in which he said that unless the services act promptly, "there will be legislation offered."

"You recall that President Truman fixed the number of draft calls per month at 50,000 in order not to delay the return of soldiers who have served overseas," he said in the interview.

"Now, it is very patent that volunteers are far exceeding the Selective Service number."

Revercomb also plugged hard for release of men with dependents.

See 2 Million Drawn Into China Civil War

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Dean of American Foreign Correspondents

Written Especially for the Hearst Newspapers

MADRID, Nov. 7—Asia has moved into the picture. Forces of Communism and Democracy are engaged in open and undisguised hostilities on a large scale in China's new civil war. It is expected that more than 2,000,000 armed men will soon be involved in the conflict.

Coupled with the sudden flare-up in Palestine, the restlessness of the Arabs in the Middle East, and the uprising in Java, the situation is viewed in diplomatic circles with apprehension.

British intervention against the independence movement of the Indonesian Nationalists of Java, it is feared, may revive the cry of Asia for the Asiatics, and against foreign imperialism and exploitation.

After eight years of war with Japan, which was decided by America, China is entering a civil struggle, as many foresaw.

China has an astounding record of civil wars. In the last 50 years of the nineteenth century there were twelve.

The more important conflicts were the Taiping rebellion, the Boxer uprising and the Sun-Yat-Sen revolution.

The Taiping strife began in 1850 with the establishment of "The Heavenly Kingdom of Great Peace" by the fanatical mystic, Hung Hsiu Chaun.

It lasted 14 years and was finally put down by Imperial Chinese troops under command of British Maj. Charles "Chinese" Gordon and the American general, Frederick Ward.

Gordon was killed by fanatical Khalifas Fuzzy Wuzzies and Gen. Ward was mortally wounded in the final stage of the Nanking struggle.

In the same period, China had four foreign wars, each of which was an invasion.

The present civil war in China is Chiang Kai-Shek's fourth or fifth military campaign against the Chinese Communist armies of Ma Tso Tung and Chu Teh.

It has been estimated that in the previous three campaigns there were between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 fatalities in actual fighting and from wounds, disease and starvation.

The new civil war may doom millions of Chinese to death and starvation.

THE PRIME OF LIFE CAN BE PROLONGED

Dr. Henry G. Sherman Says:

"A generous supply of Calcium results in better development of the young, a higher form of adult health, and a longer lease of what we may call the prime of life—the period between maturity and old age."

FOOD RATIONING MAY NOT SUPPLY SUFFICIENT CALCIUM, SAYS CLAUDE WICKARD, former U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Calcium is more often deficient in the diet than any other minerals. Calcium deficiency is a form of malnutrition that may be the cause of acidity, nervousness, fatigue, weakened heart muscles and other effects which hasten the onset of "OLD AGE" and shorten the "PRIME OF LIFE."

AM I NERVOUS?

Sleeplessness with ragged, jagged nerves may be due to a calcium deficiency which upsets the parathyroid glands causing intense sensitivity of the whole nervous system.

DO I TIRE EASILY?

A calcium starved body tires easily. A calcium deficiency may cause an upset nerve system, less strength, energy and vitality. No person can be normal without a sufficient supply of calcium.

AM I OLD AT 40?

Old at 40, evidences of early aging, perhaps at 50 or 60, may be due to calcium deficiency. Calcium is needed, in adequate amount, in the repair and growth of body organs, tissues, cells. If your health is impaired, if you are run down, tired, old at 40 and nervous because you do not get enough Calcium or Phosphorus or Vitamin D or Vitamin B1 add KAL to your diet. See how much better you feel after KAL helps to build up, then maintain a normal Calcium-Phosphorus balance and help overcome the ill effects of a deficiency of the vital elements KAL so richly supplies.

Truman Cuts List of Callers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) —President Truman is trimming his White House calling list sharply this week to permit him to grapple with home front and diplomatic problems.

In contrast to the 15 or more engagements that normally crowd his calendar each day, Mr. Truman had only four each Monday and yesterday.

Associates spoke of this as further indication of Mr. Truman's determination to assume a more aggressive course of administration and party leadership as contrasted with emphasis on delegated authority.

Knife Saves Baby As Mother Dies

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP) —A baby girl, delivered prematurely by Caesarean section after her mother died of infantile paralysis, was reported "doing well" today at Winnebago county hospital.

Mrs. Hazel Sherman, 32, mother of six other children, was brought to the hospital Saturday. Her eldest son, Glen, 14, also suffering from the disease, entered with her.

Mrs. Sherman died Monday and physicians operated immediately to save her child. The girl, who weighed 4 pounds, 14 ounces, was placed in an incubator and there were no signs she had contracted the disease.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you mix up this simple home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does the work in a hurry.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. It tastes dine and never spoils. Children love it.

And for quick action, you've never seen its superior. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a famous reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

606 MPH Jet Flight Is Record

HERNE BAY, England, Nov. 7 (AP)—Test Pilot Eric Greenwood raced a jet-powered Gloster Meteor over an official 1.86-mile course four times today at an average speed of 606 miles per hour to establish an unofficial world air speed record.

His best time—612 miles per hour—did not equal the 613 miles per hour mark set by RAF Group Capt. H. J. Wilson a few minutes earlier. However, Wilson's average for four runs was only 602 miles per hour and officials said the average speed and not the speed on any one run would stand as the record.

Previous official record was 481.84 miles per hour, set in 1939 by Capt. Fritz Wendel of the German Luftwaffe.

Police Warning Saves 7 in Fire

Seven persons, five of them children ranging in age from 9 months to 15 years, were driven from their home early today by a $3000 fire which destroyed their home in Rhoda st., Hough's Neck.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman Leighton Rogers of the Quincy police, a recently discharged war veteran, who was credited by Fire Chief William J. Sands with saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. George Michaud and their five children.

The fire started from a cause as yet undetermined in the unoccupied home of Harold Christo of Boylston st, Jamaica Plain, and spread to the adjoining house, occupied by the Michaud family.

Patrolman Rogers, riding through the section in his cruising car, discovered the blaze and aroused the Michaud family, who were sleeping and unaware their home was afire.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am an honorably discharged Army veteran and would like to know how I could procure a World War II discharge button. I lost the one issued to me at time of separation from service. I went to Hotel Buckminster, Kenmore sq., and was informed the First Service Command Hq. Detachment had moved out. H. C., Beacon Hill.

A—Button may be obtained now at either 808 Commonwealth ave., or Army Recruiting Station, 55 Tremont st., Boston. Necessary to bring your original discharge.

(Note: Veterans who received plastic buttons when discharged from service may exchange them now for the new metal button being issued at above addresses. In exchanging buttons you will have to have original discharge.)

Q—I was discharged from the Coast Guard with an "inaptitude" discharge. Am I entitled to wear a veteran's button and also apply for the $100 state bonus? F. G., Boston.

A—If discharge given under honorable conditions entitled to wear the button. Eligible for the $100 state bonus, if discharge other than dishonorable.

Q—I am a veteran with 3½ years overseas service and have served a total of five years in the Army. I took advantage of the re-enlistment program offered, but it was prior to passage of the so-called "Red Apple" enlistment program. Re-enlistment was at Ft. Leavenworth Sept. 24 last. Here are my questions: 1—Is the "Red Apple" bill retroactive? 2—Are present ratings permanent or still temporary? 3—Am I entitled to travel pay from Leavenworth to my home and thence to my new station? 4—Can I collect my mustering-out pay and state bonus? P. F. C., Dorchester.

A—1—Bill is retroactive. 2—Under new bill made permanent. 3—Entitled to travel pay and suggest that you contact Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command Hq., 808 Commonwealth ave., where you may apply and receive travel pay voucher. Eligible to collect now, both mustering-out pay and state bonus.

Q—When a veteran is discharged from the service and applies for disability compensation and his claim is not approved for several months after filing, is payment made from the month it is approved or the month application was filed? E. D. S., New Bedford.

A—Payment is effective as of date of discharge, if filed within first year after discharge, otherwise effective as of date filed.

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR SINUS SUFFERERS

In New England, about one out of five have a "germ" disease referred to as Sinus Trouble!

Nine out of ten so affected believe that because of absence of pain, it is merely Catarrh and needs no relief.

More body ailments can be traced to Sinus Trouble than to any other single malady.

Doctors claim that over 50% of Arthritis is caused by Sinus Trouble. The lining of the heart may become involved. The kidneys may be attacked. Deafness and middle ear infection are common, necessitating mastoid operations. Moreover, there is apt to be a general debility with a lack of vital energy, in addition to frequent head colds.

Eyes--Window of Face

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IN SUMMERTIME, we romanticize the body . . . in wintertime, we romanticize the face. But do you emphasize the eyes? What's the percentage in having a pretty mouth . . . a classic nose . . . or even a lovely complexion . . . if the focal feature of the face is beauty's stepchild? Your eyelids may be creased up like an accordion . . . but it's a safe wager they can't weave such pretty music when they're dead-weighted with wrinkles and roughness.

Take the nicest house in your neighborhood. Aren't the windows decked out in decorative glory? Aren't the curtains crisp and fresh? Don't the windows catch your eyes more quickly than the architectural design? And, if those windows weren't pretied up . . . that edifice would be a mighty dreary, drab affair.

Eyes are the windows of your face . . . and, as it has been said, the windows to your soul . . . the keynote of your personality. If you're serious about this beauty business . . . if you want to make yourself more attractive than you are . . . and, pray tell, what woman doesn't . . . keep those eyes shining and their shutters free from wrinkles and dryness with as much concern and interest as you keep your frocks fresh and clean.

Time can hang heavily on those lids . . . shadowing what could be a pretty face with a haggard expression. But, not when you use an eyelid oil that returns the radiance to their proper sphere . . . a perfumed eyelid oil that romanticizes and softens the eyelids much as a lace jabot softens a severely tailored dress or suit.

This eyelid oil . . . compounded from a special blend of ingredients . . . helps prevent eyelid wrinkles and dryness . . . and is perfumed with a lovely scent which fragrances the lids for hours. Not only do you employ a preventative that is balm for the eyes . . . but you touch them with a bit of glamor that is feminine heritage this season.

For the name of this perfumed eyelid oil that thwarts wrinkles and dryness, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THIS IS THE way most women like to look in summertime . . . as delightful as sea breezes . . . an apt description of lovely, vivacious Ann Miller, Columbia's dancing star. But, when the winds blow . . . and the body is caressed with clothing warmth . . . it's the face that tells the story of appeal. More particularly, bright, beautiful eyes and their fluttering, ageless lids . . . free from roughness and wrinkles that could easily damage any appealing picture.

Potatoes Plentiful

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

IT'S A FINE POTATO crop we'll be enjoying this winter. And isn't that good news? During all the war scarcities did you ever hear anyone complain of too many potatoes as they did other foods? The potato is adaptable. It's like a popular bachelor—you find it everywhere—breakfast, dinner, supper, lunches, picnics. And you enjoy it "as is" in hearty soups, salads and casseroles or as a satisfying leftover dish.

BAKED POTATOES

It will be a "happy homecoming" to be able to serve baked potatoes with plenty of butter this winter. Can't you see the steam hissing out when you prick them with a fork to drop in a chunk of butter in the center criss-cross cut? Heavy cream, salted and slightly warmed, is also delicious—a trick our farmer friends follow.

Bake them clean and dry in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 40 to 60 minutes or until tender. If you want the skin to be soft, rub a little fat on the potato before baking. And when you want to serve foods in combination, we recommend these new recipes that make use of the plentiful potato and low-point, no-point foods:

HAMBURGER DELIGHTS

Broil hamburger patties; top with generous layer of panfried onion rings and pile on this a serving of creamy hot mashed potatoes. A fruit salad is all you need to round out this menu. It looks good, tastes good and delights those who eat it.

STUFFED SURPRISES

5 large potatoes, baked
6 skinless frankfurters, diced
1 cup diced celery
1 small onion
2 or 3 tbsp. shortening
½ lb. quick-melting cheese.

Saute the frankfurters, celery and onion in shortening; add little water and steam until celery is done. Allow water to evaporate. Cut baked potatoes lengthwise in half and remove potato, adding seasoning and milk until they are creamy and smooth. Fill potato shells with frankfurter mixture; then a thin slice of cheese and top with the mashed potato. Place in oven (350 deg. F.) until tops are lightly browned, about 15 to 20 minutes. Makes six servings.

POTATO-CARROT CASSEROLE

3 to 4 large potatoes, peeled and sliced
4 to 6 carrots, peeled and sliced
1 cup diced celery Flour
Butter Salt and pepper Milk

Arrange the potatoes, carrots and celery in alternate layers in a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle each layer lightly with flour, salt and pepper and dot with butter or margarine. Add enough milk to fill the baking dish ¾ full. Bake, covered, at 350 deg. F. until potatoes are tender; then uncover and continue baking until top is lightly browned. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

6 medium-sized potatoes
Salt and pepper Flour
2 tsp. butter or margarine
3 cups rich milk

Pare potatoes and slice thin; place ½ in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and dredge with flour. Repeat, add butter to hot milk and pour over potatoes. Bake, covered, in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for ½ hour, then uncover and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until a delicately browned crust has formed on top. If milk boils over, uncover and bake at lower temperature (350 deg. F.). One tbsp. chopped onion may be added to milk for flavor. Makes 6 servings.

Gift in Memory Of Heroic Son

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Several months ago my son was killed in action overseas. He had been married for several years and I think the world of his wife. Always on their wedding anniversary I gave her a gift, and always (even while he was in service) my son sent her flowers.

Now, as the date of their wedding anniversary is approaching, I am wondering if I should give her a gift. I am so afraid that if I don't give her anything on this day she will think that I don't care about her any more when really I love her so very much. If your advice is that I should give her a gift, do you think I should give her flowers or linens, or what should the gift be?

HER MOTHER-IN-LAW.

On this anniversary day, so full of precious memories to her, she will particularly need your loving thoughts and your loving gestures, and they will be another bond between your heart and hers, another memory of your son shared together. My suggestion is that you give her two gifts: one from you, linens or whatever gift you know she would welcome for her home, and the other some flowers sent by you in the name of your son. In the box with the flowers I suggest you enclose a note or card, saying something like this: "On this day, so sacred to you and Bill, I am sending you these flowers, in his name. I know he would want me to carry on the loving bow he always made to you of sending you flowers on your wedding anniversary."

Loves Girl He Didn't Get

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I am a man 31 years of age. Three years after her husband was killed at sea, I became acquainted with a girl of 23 and fell in love with her. But we broke up because we couldn't get along, and I married another girl. My wife is expecting a baby in a couple of months. We lived together only a short time, and I see her occasionally now. I don't love her.

It's the other girl I still love, and I want to make up with her, but her mother won't let her have anything to do with me. She rules her with a rod of iron. What do you think I should do—keep on trying to see her, or should I try to fall in love with my wife? C. S. J.

Isn't it a case with you of the "far hills looking greener?" Or the girl you didn't get being the only one you want? Human nature is contrary like that.

You couldn't get along with this girl when you had a chance and now you claim you don't love your wife who's going to have a baby. Don't you really think the decent thing would be to show some affection toward toward the woman who is going to bear your child?

First Paris Hats Here

THE first group of Paris hats to come to this country in five years are hats designed by Madame Suzy, famed French milliner, and the whole group is being copied and reproduced by American millinery concerns. They will be distributed over the United States as Paris hats, made in America.

One of the Suzy hats is sketched. This is a helmet type of beautiful green felt, with a high crown and points of felt jutting down over the head to show about one inch of hair, and it is trimmed with small coral colored ostrich tips laid flat around the crown. Sheer brown veiline covers the hat over the plumes. Tiny velvet ribbons make bows at the back of the hat.

Eligible Pacific Sailors All Back by Christmas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Navy demobilization has passed the half-million mark. As of Sunday, discharges totaled 505,000. Present schedules call for release of approximately 1,200,000 by the end of the year, more than one of three persons eligible.

"Of those in the Pacific eligible for release," officials said, "the bulk if not all will be home by Christmas."

JEAN EVATT, attractive blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Evatt of Beacon st., is to become the bride of Gifford Kingsbury Simonds, Jr., son of Mrs. Gifford K. Simonds of Dudley st., Brookline, and the late Mr. Simonds. Their engagement is announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Evatt.

The future bride attended May School in Boston and Mount Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C. She made her debut at a dance at the Ritz-Carlton in 1937 and is a member of the Junior League. Like many hard-working society girls, she had her shoulder to the wheel during the war—served as one of the most capable volunteers at Children's Hospital, assisted in numerous Vincent Club and Junior League activities, ushered at the Morning Musicales and completed a secretarial course at Hickox.

Mr. Simonds attended Middlesex School and Harvard. He graduated from Babson Institute in 1935. His clubs include Hasty Pudding Institute of 1770, D. U., Tennis and Racquet of Boston and Oakhill Country Club of Fitchburg.

"WEALTH COMES from industry and from the hard experience of human toil.

"To dissipate it in waste and extravagance is disloyalty to humanity. This is by no means a doctrine of parsimony.

CURLEY GOT THINGS DONE

JAMES M. CURLEY received a positive mandate from his city in yesterday's election.

The voters of Boston told him to go ahead and get things done.

There can be no question of minority government in the choice so decisively expressed. Nobody can say that if such-and-such hadn't happened, if so-and-so hadn't been in the race, Mr. Curley would not be the mayor-elect.

Nobody can say that the votes don't mean what they add up to.

Readers of this newspaper were given an unbiased and factual account of the campaign and the result, on the basis of our forecast of Saturday that Mr. Curley appeared to hold a commanding lead, will be no surprise to them. Judging by the returns about the only people really surprised are those responsible for misleading stories and distorted headlines so confidently predicting another result.

We mention this only by way of saying that the voters weren't having any hogwash yesterday. They knew what they wanted and resented being told what they wanted.

Three things contributed mightily to the tremendous margin of Mr. Curley's victory. First, as his campaign slogan claimed, he does have a record of getting things done. Second, none of his opponents had any shucks of a record for getting anything done. Third, the voters realized that Boston must get things done now or forever occupy a back seat in civic and industrial progress and prosperity.

There are so many things that must be done for Boston! Fortunately, Mr. Curley knows what they are. Fortunately, too, he also possesses the know-how to get them done.

In this postwar era in which already we find ourselves without adequate airport and harbor facilities, the mayor-elect has a great opportunity. All those who doubt that he has the faculty of rising to the occasion are urged to study the election tables.

Mr. Curley deserves more than congratulations. He deserves a unified civic cooperation in whatever he undertakes for the city's benefit. All that Boston needs done for it is more than any one man can do.

BUY BONDS

THE WAR has ended in Europe and Asia, but the need remains.

There is the need for money to bring men home from the battle fronts.

There is need for hospitals and vitally essential care for the thousands of men who have been wounded.

There is need for reconstruction and rehabilitation in every community throughout the land.

There is need for a continuing and never relaxing fight against the possibility of ruinous inflation.

For these reasons every American everywhere should support the present Victory Loan campaign to the full limit of his financial ability.

If he has bought bonds before, he owes it to himself and his family to buy them again.

Only by the united action which the Victory Loan effort symbolizes can we have the kind of nation for which our sons fought and, in too many instances, died.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—I have always had a stout sales resistance to Robert Elliott Burns, the celebrated fugitive from a Georgia chain gang, and now that he has been pardoned with eclat by the State of Georgia, the register still records no sale.

Pegler

From the beginning the publicity of the scenario has made a hero of a fellow who on his record was a stickup man. I don't accept his story that the original prosecutor jobbed him into a plea of guilty with a promise of a maximum sentence of one year nor do I hold with those who insist, arbitrarily, that six-to-ten, which was what he got, is too much for robbery.

Circumstances alter cases but our papers the other day recorded that three women had been killed in about a week in Brooklyn by stickups and I am all in favor of making it safe for people to walk in the park or step down to the tavern after dark even though in the process we have to inflict great and prolonged mental anguish on all individuals convicted as stickups.

ANYONE WHO has ever had any traffic with wrong-doers knows that 99 out of every hundred are victims of bum raps, false promises by wheedling prosecutors and the malice of the judges.

I take the liberty to assume that Burns is a bit wrong about that imposition on his trusting nature by the prosecutor, an official who, by the way, is often described in a withering way as an "ambitious" man, "out to make a name for himself," as though ambition were an evil trait and the ideal man for this important job in the community would be some shiftless drunkard with an avowed determination to make a rotten record in the performance of his duties.

Burns says he was broke when he came out of the Army after the first big war and hung around Brooklyn four or five months without finding a job, which may not be true in all particulars but even if true was nevertheless the experience of many men who didn't try to take it out on unoffending strangers.

"I was melancholy and despondent," says he. "I was broke. I wasn't in a normal mental state. I drifted to Atlanta. No money, no friends, no place to stay. It was February and it was sleeting."

All of which, in the self-pity of Mr. Burns, adds up to an excuse for robbery by contrast with the judgment and conduct of many of us who also in our time have been out of work, broke, melancholy and despondent in surroundings no worse than Atlanta and in weather no less depressing.

I GUESS we of the newspapers have to take responsibility for this one because we certainly gave Burns a big party in print, with art, and thus prompted him into a book and a movie, the ultimate result of which is that he now regards himself as a victim of social injustice and a great reformer because Georgia finally did abolish the chain gangs.

We often do such things, persuading ourselves by our own zeal for a story that things are so which ain't. Here, our journalism ignored the basic fact that Burns was guilty of a crime against which we are forever howling and devoted ourselves exclusively to horror stuff about the chain gangs and the backwardness of a State which, at worst, was conducted much better than New York and California, in many respects.

I call attention to the fact that Burns' plea that he "wasn't in a normal mental state" because he was broke and sleet was falling as an explanation for a stick-up, is a common defense nowadays.

Because psychiatry is inexact and a matter of impression and interpretation, it has attracted many medicos who, for a fee or publicity, will go into court and tell a judge that the accused isn't a criminal at all but a victim of a compulsion neurosis and therefore should be sent to a pleasant rest cure for a year.

TO BE SURE, the chain gangs weren't nice but neither is Alcatraz and, moreover, in all the convict working parties that I have visited, and they number about 20 in Georgia and Florida, the only prisoners wearing leg irons were men who had tried to get away.

And still moreover, in Florida in recent years, the State prisoners don't go out on the roads until they have misbehaved in the big house at Raiford which is a fine prison as prisons go.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7—Those two guys from Warners, Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson, who have made almost as many pictures together as Abbott and Costello, have "Two Guys from Milwaukee," coming up right away—starting this month, in fact.

One good reason for keeping them as a team is that Dennis and Jack go well together, Morgan supplying the romance to the tune of Jack's fast cracks. The picture is about a cab driver (Carson) who gets tangled up with a prince (Morgan) who is trying to pass himself off as an American citizen from Milwaukee—only he can't spell it. Who does he think he is—another "Gay Illiterate?"

Joan Leslie

The boys will be surrounded with quite a cast. Joan Leslie, who is getting prettier and more poised all the time, plays the top femme role with Rosemary De Camp and a cute youngster, Patty Brady, from "The Song of Norway," in the musical lineup. David Butler will erase handicapping the horses long enough to direct.

MAYBE IT IS because Lt. Robert Taylor didn't kick up his heels and try to break his contract when he got out of the Navy Monday—or maybe it is just because they like the boy—but MGM have just handed him a dream contract. It is a 15-year deal, and I mean 15, with an unusual clause calling for Bob to act for only the next five and then if he wants to he can turn director. He's always had a hankering to direct, but at his age, the interesting 30s, why get behind a camera so soon?

GENE AUTRY certainly isn't losing any time getting back into stride, now that he's out of uniform. Having already closed a fabulous radio deal, he's flying to New York to sign a two-year agreement to appear at Madison Square Garden at the highest price ever paid a cowboy entertainer there—a hot $75,000 for a 26-day stretch each year. Also, our cowboy friend is getting very air-minded. He's just bought a twin-engine plane which will fly him back and forth between jobs and salary checks in New York and Hollywood.

THERE'S NOTHING like getting what you want for your birthday—something a fellow can REALLY use. Charlie Foy gave a surprise birthday party for Joe Frisco at Foy's Club Sunday night—but that's not what I meant. Charlie's gift to Frisco was a racing handicapping sheet, a couple of hundred dollars, a box of cigars and his cancelled I O U's all acquired through wrong guesses on the nags. "Now", beamed Frisco, one of the best known race losers in the world, "I'm set up in business again!"

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Bill Eythe is bluer than a Gershwin rhapsody now that Margaret Whiting is on her way East for a series of radio broadcasts even though he is joining her there later. And they'll probably be married in the East if the lady is of the same frame of mind she was when she left. Margaret has a whole fleck of radio engagements. The song that put her over is "It Might as Well Be Spring" and where Bill and Margaret are concerned—it might as well be!

I'VE SAID IT before and I'm going to keep on saying it: All you volunteer canteen and dormitory workers and contributors—your work isn't over as long as there's a single battle-fatigued boy or returned soldier passing through your town. I am thinking particularly of the fine work done by the Servicemen's dormitory which takes physically fit but battle-fatigued boys away from the atmosphere of a hospital and entertains them at Hollywood dinners, the fights, theaters and movies. These are the boys who do not need medical attention but who do need to be emotionally "reconverted" to civilian life. It's been a big job, well done, and the dormitory still needs your aid.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mrs. Duncan McMartin is still in New York and has no intention of getting her divorce in Mexico. She will file in the U. S. A and I am told she is asking plenty of moola. Well, Duncan is the boy who has it; one thing is certain—Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski is not in Reno at this writing. She and her bridegroom, Leopold Stokowski, have been doing the night spots in New York, or were up to a week ago. He goes to South America soon on a tour; Martha Stewart and Joe E. Lewis, who have set a half dozen wedding dates, now say it will be definitely in April when he gets out here; Herbert Marshall, who started a movie Monday, has no plans to go East. He and Lee have been seeing each other and their pals are keeping their fingers crossed that they will reconcile.

EDDIE EAGAN, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, is in town. He has been dickering with some of our producers about the rights to his book, "Fighting for Fun"—but I hear John Considine, Jr., has the inside track; John Frederic, the milliner who usually concentrates on chic chapeaux, is making Margot's wedding gown of pale blue. She and Eddie Albert are promising to love, honor and obey any day now; Mack Gray, my favorite off-screen henchman, was so good in "Johnny Angel" that he is having special roles written into George Raft's next two movies, "Congresswoman" and "Nocturne." Mack's not only a good actor—but a good guy, young Cathy McDonnell, signed by Sam Goldwyn over a year ago and then sent back East for dramatic training, gets back next week for her first screen role in "Glory for Me." That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—A glance at the calendar shows that in a few days I'll be celebrating my seventh anniversary as a Broadway column writer. I like that number seven. It's what the Broadway lads call a "natural." Of course, they're referring to galloping dominoes, not to Toni Seven, the pin-up girl. And "naturals" brings us to the subject of today's wordage—what is a natural?

Van Johnson

The dictionary simplifies it this way: Not forced or artificial. I disagree. In Broadway parlance a natural is an overnight success—one made without any more effort than it takes to stroll out on a stage or a night club floor. But in Broadway history it doesn't work that way.

FOR INSTANCE, I've been told that Van Johnson is a natural. Uh, uh. He hoofed in the local show shops and didn't get a tumble. Drank his sodas in the Broadway drug stores and no one swooned. Sat in agents' offices and wasn't invited past the secretaries' desks. A shrewd talent scout penciled the word possibility (not "a natural") after his name, and he got his chance in pictures. He clicked, but it was through a well-planned buildup and presentation. If you tell Van he's a natural I'm sure he'll pull out his rabbit's foot and rub it very hard.

Irving Berlin has as many song hits to his credit as there are words in this column. But don't call him a natural. Call him rather a hard worker and a student—yes, a student of the times. His classic "White Christmas," for instance. He'd seen a lot of the boys in uniform, in both wars, and knew what was in their hearts. Home! And he put all their yearning into that first line, "I'm dreaming of a white Christmas, just like the ones I used to know." A natural, accoladed the song critics.

Sure, sure! Just like the atomic bomb.

AND BING CROSBY, the nation's baritone bard. "A natural, with that voice!" exclaim the short-memory lads. They forget his years in fifth-rate side street hotels, his underpaid spots with orchestras, one birthday crowding another with just a rent-money job in front of him. When he hit, it was harder than a Joe Louis punch and landed smack on the public's fancy.

Bankhead of the gravel tonsils is another gal who should detest the word natural. Staccato thinking and (figuratively speaking) standing on her head at the click of the camera shoved her up to success on the stairway of publicity.

DO I HEAR you screaming "Frankie Boy!" Well, if he were a natural he'd never have gotten that hungrily lean in the 10 years he spent singing his way upward on band mikes. A trio of press agents went to work frantically when he opened at the Riobamba. Their swoon creation zinged off like a giant firecracker and the explosion left them with startled, open mouths. And, you'll recall, the Riobamba itself vanished in the smoke. It, too, was a natural, but the owners couldn't find a natural to follow the natural—natch

Boston After Dark

THE CURLEY SWEEP could have proved more dramatic had it been less expected . . . This time, the miracle man of Boston politics, James Michael Curley, reigned a true favorite, and won like the odds-on choice he was . . . Curley has been a favorite in earlier elections, only to be robbed of what seemed a sure victory by misfortune.

IT WAS misfortune In 1937, the year of the first Tobin victory, because political leaders like Mike Ward had gotten bored with being linked in the public eye as "Curley stooges," and because Tobin happened to be as personable and appealing as he proved to be in the eyes of the women voters.

IT WAS REAL misfortune four years later when Tobin won again because Curley lacked the prestige and the influence of several city departments, including the election department. . . . Yesterday, the master was not denied . . . This department went on record last March as predicting a Curley victory . . . It made him a 1 to 2 favorite two weeks ago . . . Monday, the day before election, it led its sub-head of "Things to watch in the election," the "margin of the Curley victory" . . . Thus accepting the inevitability of a Curley triumph . . . Yesterday it reflected public opinion by citing the TRUE odds on Curley, and these made him a 10-3 favorite.

This department, as its readers know, was on the Curley bandwagon constantly . . . The election was never close, and never "doped" that way.

WE ASK NO PLAUDITS for forcasting this Curley victory . . . The Hearst newspapers called the race the way it was run, Curley-Kerrigan, as one-two . . . But these newspapers are of an independent turn of mind and owe no allegiance to any particular man or party . . . It is with sincerity and considerable admiration, therefore, that we toss a posy to the political editor of the only out-and-out Republican newspaper in Boston—let us call him Bill (although his full name ends with Mullins).

MR. M. HAS great political sagacity and courage . . . He steered his sheet and its editorial and news policy with such fine seamanship in a hectored political sea that he led with the news, which was that Mr. Curley was a favorite to win, and followed with his editorial opinion . . . This editorial opinion was that Mr. Curley, regret it and deplore it as much as all hands (including his editorial self) might regret, deplore and rue it, seemed a sure winner in this very crucial fight.

Yes, Mr. Mullins earned the commendation of the boys and girls in our profession, and we hope his bosses see it that way (not that Mr. M. has any cause to worry) . . . As for another certain newspaper in Boston—oh me, oh my, oh, oh, oh, OH! . . . It went all out for Mr. Reilly who, in running a pitiful third, showed up the newspaper as far less than the political power in Boston and Massachusetts it was credited with being. The The Reilly defeat, incidentally, badly harmed the chances of the so-called Tobin machine of asserting itself loudly in Boston for sometime (or perhaps for all time) to come.

WHEN ONE IS "MAKING" a favorite in a Boston municipal election, the person or institution which presumes to take the public pulse should be guided in these modern days by the REAL sentiment of the public, and not that of some aloof power who sets his receiving beam on Station Wishful Hoping . . . Curley, to conclude, may fool his detractors and enemies and prove himself the most humane and considerate and intelligent mayor Boston has ever had . . . Watch him!

HE WAS ELECTED only by minutes when plots and plans were afoot to dislodge him from the high post the voters of Boston demanded overwhelmingly that he be given . . . It would seem like political suicide to oppose so forceful a fiat of the people, but political suicide was committed all over the place before the polls closed last night.

RICHARD KOLLMAR, actor-producer husband of Dorothy Kilgallen, the broadway columnist, has produced a potential hit in a new musical called "Are You With It?" . . . Philadelphia is seeing the musical in its tryout stages . . . The effort marks a strong and important comeback by the courageous Mr. Kollmar, who sustained a major setback last season when his lavish and costly "Dream With Music" proved one of the most expensive failures of that season.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—I am sadly downcast today because I have just been talking to a very gloomy gentleman. This lugubrious party surveyed my raiment, which personally I consider ravishing, and croaked:

"Heaven knows you are a mess now. But you will look worse, much worse, before you look any better."

"Why, sir," I retorted, "it is obvious you do not know a well-dressed man when you see me. I am practically a Beau Brummell."

The doleful fellow shook his head and said:

"Not Brummell! just bum."

I drew myself up in towering dignity, which has been known to make strong men quail, on toast, and snapped:

"Varlet—what meanest by this? In other words, what the devil are you babbling about?"

"My name is not Varlet," said the fellow. "It is Goldheim—Willard Goldheim. I am trying to tell you about the men's clothing situation."

Mr. Goldheim, it developed, is very close to the clothing business, spending most of his waking hours informing customers who wish a blue pinstripe double-breasted suit that they have a choice of two garments, neither double-breasted nor blue pinstripe, nor their size.

"The men's clothing situation," he said, "is going to become steadily worse instead of better for the next year. I wish to make a flat prediction. You will see no great improvement until the spring and maybe summer of 1947."

Mr. Goldheim said many things are wrong with the clothing industry.

"In the first place," he continued, "most of the workers—the cutters and tailors—were foreign-born. But immigration began tightening up about 15 years ago and these types of European craftsmen haven't been coming in.

"Many of the shops are here died; others have drifted into other industries. There have been few replacements.

"A great many clothing workers have gone into war industries—and apparently don't want to come back. This is a bit hard to understand because the clothing industry, by and large, is now paying as high wages as steel. Futhermore, it does not have the occupational hazards, outside of maybe getting a needle stuck in your finger."

I asked Mr. Goldheim if he had any solution.

"Our job," he said, "is to try to get the clothing business as attractive to American-born workers as other lines of work. Working conditions, generally speaking, are good. Most clothing factories are light and airy with good accommodations. The old sweatshop has virtually vanished."

The melancholy Mr. Goldheim, whom I suspect of conducting classes for pessimists on the side, continued:

"At the beginning of last August we were short 3,000,000 units of normal requirements," he said. "In our business a unit is a suit or a topcoat. Since V-J Day, upwards of 4,000,000 men have gotten out of the armed services. If each of them buys only two units of clothing—a suit and an overcoat—that adds up to another 8,000,000 units.

"So, by the first of the year, we will be short a good 11,000,000 units of normal requirements.

"Your guess is as good as mine as to how many more men will be discharged next year. I wouldn't be surprised to find stocks of clothing 25,000,000 units short of consumer demands by next summer."

MR. GOLDHEIM looked more disconsolate than ever.

"Come back next Fourth of July," he said, "You'll probably see only an array of empty hangers!"

ENLISTED MEN at the Pentagon Building have been indulging in a weird form of amusement. They keep telephoning a certain lieutenant on desk duty—and, when he answers, they go into paroxysms of laughter, and hang up.

The point of the whole thing baffles me—and, I am informed, the victim is completely mystified, too.

All he does, on answering, is to give his name, as required by Army regulations. He says:

"Lieutenant Sass."

ROY ST. LEWIS, prominent Washington attorney, arrived at a cocktail party the other day with one eye badly inflamed. The hostess, a kittenish dame, asked him if he had been drinking on one side.

"No," said Mr. St. Lewis, "the most amazing thing happened. I was traveling from Pittsburgh to Washington and got a cinder in my eye."

"I wouldn't call that so amazing."

"Yes," said Mr. St. Lewis, "but I was in an airplane!"

Faust Tonight At Opera

Knives flashed and passions flared up on the stage of the Opera House last night when the Boston Grand Opera Company presented the popular melodramatic double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci." Virginia Pemberton was a sympathetic Santuzza. An experienced cast of singing actors included Joseph Napoli as Turiddu, Edwin Steffe as Alfio, Martha Larrimore as Lola and Georgiana Bourdon as Mamma Lucia.

"I Pagliacci," introduced by Angelo Pilotto's smooth polished Prologue had in Jean Parrelli a lively Nedda, Norberto Ardelli as Canio and Lawrence White as Silvio gave satisfying performances. Dino Bigalli directed with a lively beat.

The Boston Grand Opera Company, now in its third and final week, will offer "Faust" tonight

SHIRLEY DOESN'T TELL HIM—There are kisses, but Shirley Temple doesn't tell her papa, Walter Abel, and therein lies a tale told in Columbia's comedy, "Kiss and Tell," which is being held over a second week on Lowe's twin screens.

NOW IN A REVIVAL SHOWING at the Exeter Street Theater, "Colonel Blimp" is definitely worth catching. Deborah Kerr is starred in such excellent company as Anton Walbrook and Roger Livesey.

BROWN AT LAFFMOVIE

Joe E. Brown, recipient of the highest civilian award recently for his magnificent entertainment stint for the GI's, is now to be seen on the Laffmovie screen in "Joan of Ozark." Judy Canova is his co-star.

Dorothy Kilgallen writes "Broadway" every day for the Boston American.

Pleads 'Vision' In Dr. Shooting

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Nov. 7 (AP)—Visions and voices he claimed to have seen and heard several months after the death of his wife, were described to Judge Ernest A. Englis and a jury today by Alphonso LaGaipa, 49, on trial for assault to murder Dr. Wilham H. Curley.

Mrs. LaGaipa died Oct. 20, 1944, following an operation by Dr. Curley. The surgeon was shot in the back with a shotgun on the night of June 19. The State charges LaGaipa, blaming Dr. Curley for the death of his wife, fired the shot

LaGaipa's defense is that he was mentally ill at the time.

Court Awards $5000 Estate to Nurse

Securities valued at $5211.38, left by the late Morgan F. O'Brien of Commonwealth ave., Allston, were today awarded to Nellie S. Dewar, his fiancee, by Judge John V. Mahoney in Suffolk Probate Court.

Miss Dewar, of Brainerd rd., Brighton, a registered nurse, told the court that during O'Brien's final illness he endorsed the securities to her. Garrett J. Barry, public administrator, filed a petition asking the court to determine ownership.

CAMBRIDGE

Former Mayor John D. Lynch led a field of 37 candidates for the Cambridge City Council today in an unofficial count of votes cast in 22 of the city's 55 precincts. The total vote of 33,937 in the Plan E election broke all records.

Lynch, with 1580, was ahead of Councilor Michael J. Neville who had 1305. W. Donnison Swan polled 1011 to lead Councilor Hyman Pill who received 766.

Other councilors seeking re-election and their unofficial totals: Dr. James J. Cassidy, 632; Francis L. Sennott, 621, and Michael A. Sullivan, 588.

Nine councilor posts were at stake along with six school committee positions. Election results will not be known for at least a week.

WORCESTER

In Worcester, State Sen. Charles F. "Jeff" Sullivan, Democrat, defeated acting Mayor John H. Toomey, Jr., Republican. The vote: Twomey, 27,937; Sullivan, 31,020. John C. O'Brien, Democrat, was elected councilor-at-large, polling 29,801 votes against Axel U. Sternfol, who received 27,725

The Republicans won the school committee-at-large race, electing Valmore X. Gaucher over Joseph A. Aspero. The totals: Gaucher, 31,202; Aspero, 25,599.

LOWELL

Lowell, like Cambridge, voted under the Plan E system. This city had 59 candidates for the nine city council berths, and there were 29 seeking the six school committee seats. As in Cambridge, the mayor will be elected subsequently from the membership of the council.

FITCHBURG

Final tabulations in Fitchburg showed Mayor Alfred Wollacott was re-elected by a margin of 109 votes over State Sen. George W. Stanton, who announced he would ask for a recount. Complete figures gave Wollacott 8025 and Stanton 7916.

FALL RIVER

State Sen. William P. Grant is the next mayor of Fall River, defeating former Mayor Edmond P Talbot, 23,067 to 15,369. Mayor Alexander C. Murray was not a candidate for re-election

PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield's 76-year-old Mayor James Fallon was returned to office for a fifth term in an easy victory over Carl J. Chiaretti, 30 Fallon polled 8925 votes against 5234 for his opponent. The election brought out 14,631 of the city's 25,800 registered voters.

One of the surprises of the Pittsfield voting was the election of Mrs. Leonora Goerlach, 33, as councilor-at-large. She became the first woman ever elected in a citywide contest, and her vote — 9137—was the largest in any contested race.

CHICOPEE

Piling up a lead of more than 4000 votes by carrying 14 of the city's precincts, Chicopee's Mayor Edward P. Boudreau was elected to a second term, defeating Chester T. Skibinski, former State Senator. The totals were Boudreau, 10,750; Skibinski, 6169.

MARLBORO

Marlboro furnished an upset today in the election of Carleton W. Allen, president of the city council, as mayor. He defeated Michael P. Cronin, five-year incumbent, by 294 votes. Allen polled 3279 votes, Cronin 3030.

GARDNER

Mayor Oscar R. Andvshold of Gardner was re-elected to his third term by a 1316 margin over Atty. Eugene O. Turcotte. Complete returns today gave the mayor 4070 votes to 2754 for his opponent.

WESTFIELD

Voters of Westfield returned Mayor Arthur B. Long as mayor. He defeated Dennis S. Shannon by a margin of 703 votes, receiving 3679 votes to 2976 for Shannon. Shannon is a veterinarian and inspector in the Westfield health department.

LEOMINSTER

Mayor Mathias LaPierre of Leominster was elected to a third term by a comfortable margin over Paul R. Nettel, president of the city council. LaPierre polled 4209 votes to Nettel's 3362.

SPRINGFIELD

The Springfield municipal election was a see-saw affair throughout the counting and not until the final precincts were in did Daniel B. Brunion nose out Mayor J. Albin Anderson, Jr., by a slim margin. The total vote was Brunton 20,774, and Anderson 20,404.

Tobin Names Golden To Accident Board

Gov. Tobin submitted to the executive council today the name of Hugh J. Golden, Jr., of Fall River, for a five-year term at $6000 annually, as a member of the industrial accident board.

Dr. James W. Manary, superintendent of the Boston City Hospital, was nominated as a member of the approving authority for schools for nurses, succeeding Dr. Gerald Houser. Antonio England of New Bedford was nominated to the State Advisory Council, division of employment security, as successor to Daniel J. Goggin.

ROSLINDALE MAN DEAD

Charles Osborne, 78, of 39 Cotton st., Roslindale, a retired engineer, collapsed in the driveway of his home today and was pronounced dead on arrival of police. He is survived by his wife, Mary.

Curley

the 70-year-old veteran of nearly a half-century of political battles, was interrupted frequently by messengers bringing congratulatory telegrams to his famous "House with the Shamrocks on the Shutters."

"They've come from all over the United States, yes, even one from Puerto Rico," he said.

He reminded younger newsmen that he was a delegate from Juerto Rico to the 1932 Democratic convention which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"It's rather nice to feel they remembered me," Curley said in his mellowest tones.

"There's also even a telegram from an elder of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City."

"Is there one from Gov. Tobin?" he was asked.

Smiling broadly in the fashion made famous through years of camapigning, he replied jovially:

"No, I guess he's too busy—socially."

When a reporter asked if he planned to run for Governor in 1946, he answered quickyq:

"I've got a steady job now that will take up my entire time."

He said he would remain in Congress "as long as I am needed there." He pointed out that Richard M. Russell an dArthur Bates served in Congress while mayors of Cambridge and Salem, respectively.

"I am very pleased with the tribute paid me by the people of Boston in this election," Curley declared. He added jokingly:

"Especially in the Republican wards although that was not unexpected. They have intelligence, you know."

He asked representatives of several Boston papers to express his thanks to their superiors for the handling of campaign news.

"I want particularly to praise the fairness of the Hearst papers," he said. "Just as in every campaign, they have been absolutely and eminently fair.

"I wish to extend my gratitude to the management and particularly to my very good friend, William Randolph Hearst."

Curley scoffed at the idea Boston needs a Plan E form of government.

"I don't believe that's necessary. Boston is able to conduct its affairs in conformance with the government we now have. We'll prove that in a very short time."

The mayor-elect appeared fully rested after his arduous campaign and the turbulent celebration accorded him when his victory became certain in th early hours of last night's ballot tabulation.

He rose shortly before noon after a rest of nearly 12 hours. Breakfast was served in bed and his daughter, Mary Donnelly, arrived shortly before the meal and joined him for coffee.

She greeted the large gathering of reporters and photographers waiting to see Curley with a cheery "good morning, gentlemen. Just like old times, isn't it?"

"This election is the best he ever won. It's wonderful to be on top again."

In scoring his most smashing triumph, Curley was given 114,930 votes to overwhelm the remaining five contenders.

Mayor Kerrigan was second with 60,488 and former Fire Commr. William Arthur Reilly trailed i nthird place with 46,240.

Left far behind in the Curley sweep were the other three candidates. Governor's Councilor John J. Sawtelle received 12,638 votes for fourth place, and former School Committeeman Joseph Lee, Jr., was fifth with 9916.

State Representative and City Councilor Richard P. Feeney, polling only 3265 votes.

Curley called his election a "victory for all the people of Boston" in a victory statement broadcast over Station WMEX from a microphone in the editorial rooms of the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser.

"The result of the election cannot be regarded as a personal tribbute to me," he said. "Rather, it is a victory for all the people of Boston.

"The problems to be solved are monumental, but they are not impossible of solution. United co-operation and faith are essential upon the part of everyone.

"All of us interested in the future of Boston can, with the aid of divine Providence, succeed in the great task that lies ahead."

Curley's victory was most impressive. He captured 18 of the city's 22 wards.

He lost the two South Boston wards, the stronghold of Mayor Kerrigan, but even there he cut sharply into his rival's strength, losing by only 236 votes in Ward 6 and by 653 votes in Ward 7.

Kerrigan carried Ward 6 with 3714 votes to 3478 for Curley, while he led the congressmen in Ward 7 5472 to 4819.

Curley and his most ardent supporters had expected to lose these wards, but were almost confounded at his unexpected display of strength in the home territory of his nearest rival.

The congressman also dealt smashing blows to Republican prestige in its Back Bay strongholds.

He overwhelmed the Republican machine of Sen. Charles J. Innes, who had come outstrongly with Rep. and City Councilor Perlie Dyer Chase in the interests of Kerrigan's candidacy.

Curley carried the Innes stronghold of Ward 4 in the Back Bay with 3838 votes, while Kerrigan ran second with 2752 and Reilly third with 1767.

In Ward 5, where Republican leaders split with Henry L. Shattuck endorsing Reilly and Stuart Rand supporting Kerrigan, Curley just missed.

Reilly carried the ward with 3042 votes, while Curley was only 31 votes behind with a total of 3011. Kerrigan ran third with 2634 votes.

Thus Curley missed by only 32 votes in his pre-election prediction that he would carry both Back Bay wards.

In addition to this, Curley, for the first time in his amazing career, carried all five Dorchester wards, his home ward in Jamaica Plain, and Wards 12 and 14 in Roxbury and Mattapan.

He also administered a slap to Gov. Tobin's tacit support of the Reilly candidacy by scoring an overwhelming victory in Ward 10, the Governor's native Mission Hill district.

In addition, he overwhelmed expected opposition from Sawtelle in both East Boston and the North End, and carried both Brighton wards, where he never previously had displayed strength, by more than 1000 votes.

FALL RIVER MILK SHORT

FALL RIVER, Nov. 7 (AP)—A shortage of milk in the Fall River area has resulted in discontinuance of delivery to eight Tiverton, R. I., schools and seven in the Fall River area.

Election Oddities

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—Bert T. Baker, 73-year-old Republican city judge, won re-election yesterday, but it was a hollow victory—he will not even begin his new term. The mayor of Ithaca will appoint a new city judge Dec. 31, under a 1945 amendment to the state judicial law prohibiting the holding of office by a judge who has reached his 70th birthday.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—Henry Ford is the new mayor of Kalamazoo—but his business is law and not automobiles. Atty. Ford is no relation to the Dearborn Fords.

EAST PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 7 (INS)—Final returns in East Paterson's municipal election disclosed today that the voters had elected a dead man. He was Robert Brett, incumbent Democratic councilman who died a month ago.

DR. A. J. McKNIGHT DEAD

Dr. Albert J. McKnight of Garden st., Cambridge, collapsed at his dentistry office in Boylston st. today and was dead upon arrival at City Hospital. Dr. McKnight, 67, was widely known in his profession and a member of several civic clubs.

Concord Write-In Mayor N. H. Upset

Municipal elections in New Hampshire were featured by the surprise victory in Concord of a 38-year-old printing company pressman, Charles C. Davis, who in his first bid for public office defeated Mayor Charles J. McKee, seeking a third term.

Davis, a former Concord High football star, hadn't even considered running a month ago, and became a candidate by virtue of 24 write-in votes in the primary. He nudged out McKee by 72 votes, polling 2959 to the incumbent's 2887.

McKee, an insurance company executive who had served on the Board of Public Works for several years before becoming mayor, had been expected to win an easy victory in the non-partisan election.

In Portsmouth, Mrs. Mary C. Dondero (D.), was re-elected to a second term as mayor, defeating her Republican opponent, Ira A. Brown, by a comfortable margin. Widow and grandmother, the 51-year-old victor hailed her re-election as "a reward of honest effort." She became the city's first woman mayor two years ago.

Mayor Josephat T. Benoit (D.), was re-elected by Manchester voters over Leo F. Donnelly (R.), by a 13,873 to 7954 count. Ballots were cast by 53 per cent of the city's 22,073 registered voters.

Keene voters chose as mayor James C. Farmer, former Republican candidate for governor. He defeated Laurence M. Pickett, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives, by a vote of 1892 to 973. Farmer succeeds Richard L. Holbrook, who did not seek re-election after serving three terms.

Republicans carried four out of the five wards in contests for minor government offices.

In Nashua, Dr. Oswald S. Maynard was elected mayor, topping a field of six candidates by a large vote. His nearest competitor was James H. Shenton, a manufacturer. Dr. Maynard has been chairman of the Board of Health for 10 years.

RE-ELECTED—The voters of Portsmouth, N. H., returned Mrs. Mary Dondero, attractive widow and grandmother, to a second term as mayor with an overwhelming majority. She is the city's first woman mayor.

U. S. Calls Capital Bus Strike Parley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (INS)—The nation's capital faced another day without public transportation today as the Labor Department scheduled a conciliation meeting in an effort to end the transit strike which tied up the movement of 500,000 government workers.

Approximately 4000 employes of the Capital Transit Co. planned to continue their strike for a wage increase of 30 cents an hour.

Representatives of the union were to confer with Labor Department Conciliator Richard Goodrick today.

N. E. Shoe Plane Due in London

Winging its way over the Atlantic, a transoceanic airline was scheduled to arrive in London today with a consignment of latest models in women's shoes, in a bold New England bid for a major part of Europe's postwar shoe trade.

By tomorrow these shoes, identical to those being exhubited in Boston during the present Victory Shoe Market Week, scheduled for display in the British capital, are expected to create a heavy demand among the millions of shoe-deprived women abroad.

A "Gay Nineties" entertainment for buyers and exhibitors tonight at the Mechanics Building will mark the third day of the show.

A manufacturers' and wholesalers' report of an avalanche of orders sufficient to boom New England's shoe industry for the next six months followed yesterday's luncheon style show featuring next season's most startling footwear.

GOP in Hartford, New Haven Wins

HARTFORD, Ct., Nov. 7 (INS) Connecticut mayoralty election returns today showed Republican victories in Hartford and New Haven, a narrow Democratic win in Waterbury and re-election of Bridgeport's Socialist mayor for a seventh term.

Hartford, which joined the GOP column two years ago, after 10 years of Democratic rule, remained Republican with election of City Police Judge Cornelius A. Moylan to succeed retired Mayor William H. Mortensen (R.). Moylan polled 28,951 votes to 19,751 for former Democratic Mayor Thomas J. Spellacy.

The election of Alderman William C. Celentano (R.) as mayor of New Haven ended the 14-year Democratic tenure of Mayor John W. Murphy. Celentano polled 32,655 votes to Murphy's 26,911.

In Bridgeport, a majority of 9690 ballots over his Democratic and Republican opponents gave Socialist Jasper McLevy a seventh term as mayor. The final tallies were: McLevy 23,302, James P. O'Day (D.) 8107 and Charles F. Dowd (R.) 5505.

time to Mayor Kerrigan's campaign.

Ex-Rep. Milton Cook, recently discharged from the Army with the rank of major after serving in the South Pacific, won a notable victory in Ward 12, Roxbury, where five candidates waged a lively campaign for the council seat from which Councilor-Sen. Charles I. Taylor is retiring. Cook got 3318 votes to win the fight.

Cook's victory gave Boston its first man-wife-Councilor-Legislator combination as Mrs. Cook was elected to the Legislature in her husband's stead in 1942, following his entry into the Army, and won re-election last year.

Councilor William A. Carey retained his Council seat in Ward 10, Roxbury, and in Ward 2, Charlestown, Councilor Michael Lee Kinsella won out over Rep. David M. Cleary.

Councilor Joseph Russo was re-elected in Ward 3, downtown, and a close battle in Ward 6, South Boston, was won by Councilor Joseph M. Scannell, with a margin of only 286 votes over James J. Twohig, Jr.

Double Bull's-eye

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7 (AP)—Patrolman E. R. West aimed carefully and pulled the trigger—bull's-eye!

He then went home to change clothes. A skunk caught in a rat trap had also aimed.

This Is My Story ★ ★

By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

(The sound of the National Anthem under the galling circumstances of captivity, made lighter the burden he was carrying. Gen. Wainwright reveals today in the 28th article of his series. He tells in detail, too, of his last days at Tarlac Prison and how he heard exciting news about operations in the Solomons.)

Our days at Tarlac Prison Camp dragged abysmally into August, 1942. On the seventh of that month we received one of our rare visits from the Jap lieutenant in nominal charge of our camp. He confronted us during our evening roll call, accepted our salutes and bows, and, using Col. Robert Hoffman as interpreter, told us we would leave Tarlac and be sent either to Formosa or Japan proper within the next few days.

I walked alone through the little prison yard that night, feeling bluer than I had felt throughout my captivity. I was positive that Gen. MacArthur would lead men back to the Philippines as soon as he humanly could, and liberate us. I had even put down a date of liberation in my diary: " . . . Dec. 31, 1943." That was almost 17 months away, but at least it was a date and I made myself believe in it, though I had no word from the outside world as to the progress of the war either in Europe or the Pacific. But, as I say, it was a date . . . flimsy, but something to hold to, something to pin my faith to. One grasps at such straws.

Now we had been told we were being sent to Formosa or Japan. We were being moved away from the direction from which our troops must one day come. Our sentences were being lengthened indefinitely. I talked this over with Brig. Gen. Lewis Beebe that night, and he felt the same wave of frustration which had settled over me.

In our last days at Tarlac we bought everything we could find to buy, not knowing what kind of conditions we would face at our new prison camp. Our haul consisted mainly of Filipino cigarets and carabao soap.

All Packed To Go

Two days before we left Tarlac we were warned that we could only take such baggage as we could carry. We packed as many of our effects as we could in our bags, or wrapped them in bundles, and put the meager excess in Col. Johnny Pugh's foot locker, a community carryall.

But the Japs have a characteristic which prompts them to make you prepare yourself for one thing and then instruct you differently. After we had carefully sorted and packed our belongings and were certain from lifting them many times that we would be able to carry them (we were prepared, if necessary, to abandon Pugh's trunk), we were told we could take as much as we wanted, for trucks would be provided.

We were fed a very early breakfast on the morning of Aug. 11, 1942, after which we were made to clean and polish the barracks, latrine and yard. At about 7 a. m., when this task was completed, we were formed in a column of fours, burdened down with more than we had planned to carry on our backs, and marched to the Tarlac railroad station.

We were probably a pathetic looking lot; hardly a Bataan Death March, but certainly a Parade of the Vanquished. Because of the weights on our backs, it was impossible to present any military bearing, any vestige of our remaining dignity as officers and men.

So we just slumped along the road toward the station. And then a remarkable thing happened. Hauntingly, unbelievably, we became aware that someone was whistling . . . whistling the "Star Spangled Banner."

Stirring Music

I looked at the faces of the men around me in the line of march. They, too, had heard and were finding it a stirring incongruity in this setting. But none was whistling.

And then we discovered the whistler. It was a ragged little Filipino boy, 10 or 12 years old, standing at the side of the road. The Jap guard walked menacingly close to the kid, but he never missed a note, never faltered, until the whole line had passed.

I think we must have walked a little straighter, a little more briskly, the rest of the way to the station.

We were aboard the train and en route to Manila before 8 a. m., chugging through land so familiar that we expected momentarily to recognize friends. And, indeed, we did. The train paused at a little station named Dao, which is just five miles east of my old Fort Stotsenburg. And there on the platform Maj. Edward P. King and I saw a Filipino lad who had worked for us. He was the son of a cook. Both father and son were working for me the day the Jap bombers came over Stotsenburg and bombed nearby Clark Field. Both, incidentally, fled out the back door of my house that day, leaving only good old Felemon San Pedro to bring me the beer I ordered during the raid. They did not return for two days.

But I was glad to see the lad and so was Gen. King. He generously took all the Philippine money he had in his pockets and pressed it into the boy's hand, telling him to share it with his father.

The train moved on and we arrived in Manila at 1 p. m. We were piled into trucks and, to my astonishment, I saw that the driver of my truck was an American soldier. We were heavily guarded, but he had some whispered news that sent a great thrill through my body. He leaned over to me and said:

"General, this is the straight stuff: Our Marines have landed in the Solomons. Place named Guadalcanal, and they're doing great."

Thank God, I said to myself. Thank God. The Solomons were an eternity of miles below us, and we were now being moved in the opposite direction, but at last we were fighting back, fighting back with what must be the tools we had needed in the first place.

The truck carried us straight to Pier 7, the largest in Manila. Sight of the pier, whose end had been chewed off by a Jap bomb, filled me with mixed emotions. It was on this same pier that I had last seen my wife, the day she sailed for home and blessed safety, 15 months before. I had, of course, heard nothing from her since my surrender, and despite many appeals had not been able to communicate with her to tell her I was still alive. That is intense torture.

The Stinko-Maru

We were marched out on the covered pier and halted. At pierside lay a good-sized Japanese ship which Col. Johnny Pugh in time named the Stinko-Maru. But we were not to embark for a time. After standing there an hour and a half we were sharply ordered to face in the opposite direction from the ship.

I peeked over my shoulder and saw the reason. A long line of Jap sailors reached from the pier, up the gangplank and into the ship. They began passing little square cardboard boxes, in fire-bucket-brigade style, into the ship. Each box was labeled with Jap language characters. The boxes, I knew, contained the ashes of Jap soldiers being sent to home shrines, and the Japs wanted us to know nothing about their casualties.

We stood there another hour and a half after the ashes were loaded, and during that time I had two Jap visitors.

One was Lt. Kusomoto, the Olympic discus thrower who had been decent to us in our early days of captivity in Manila. He was carrying a carton of Lucky Strikes. He nodded to me and then found Sgt. Hubert Carroll, looked at me again, and handed the cigarets to Carroll.

Courtesy, you see, forbade his handing the package to me, for the Japs believe it is bad form for a general officer to carry any kind of burden, even one as precious as those American cigarets. The fact that at the moment I had a heavy pack on my back made no difference to Kusomoto.

The other visitor was a grinning Jap general who sought me out and engaged me in conversation. It was from him I learned that we were being taken to Karenko, on Formosa, not to Japan.

"I was at Karenko recently," the Jap general beamed. "You will find it a very beautiful place. Lots of food: fish, fruit, meat and sugar; a very fertile country. There's a fine beathing beach nearby and I'm sure you'll be permitted to swim. Yes, you'll like Karenko."

With those words of his in mind (and I was to think of them many times later) I boarded the Stinko-Maru.

TOMORROW: The trip to "beautiful" Karenko.)

Gen. Paul to Speak Here Armistice Day

Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, commanding general of the Yankee Division in the European theater of operations, will be honored at an Armistice Day luncheon Monday, at the Hotel Statler, under auspices of Crosscup-Pishon Post of Boston, advertising men's unit of the American Legion.

Parents of YD soldiers have been invited to attend the luncheon and hear the general's story of their boys' achievements.

JAP CEMETERY FOR YANKS

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 7 (AP)—The remains of Americans who died in Jap prison camps or were killed in plane crashes on bombing raids are being re-buried in a cemetery on a hill overlooking Yokosuka Harbor, where American fleet units are anchored.

Athletes to Broadcast Their Own Sport Events

By AUSTEN LAKE

AMONG THE EDITORIAL ODDITIES is announcement of a coming marvel of radio engineering—a featherweight transmitting set which will permit athletes to broadcast while performing. What a boon to sports.

For example! The scene is the annual Holy Cross-B. C. game. "Hy-ho all! This is Stan Koslowski in the Crusader's huddle on the B. C. 40-yard line, I'm going to take the ball on a reverse spinner to the weak side . . . Big Poison we call it . . . We go into formation . . . Hip! Hip! . . . I take the snap-back, spin and sneak through tackle . . . I'm down! I'm up! I'm tackled! I'm loose! What a gain! What a spine tingling thrill. What a wonderful autumn day in this festooned park with thousands of lovely football girls and loyal old alumni . . . They're delirious! A howling horseshoe of humanity!

Austen Lake

"I'm on the B. C. 20-yard line . . . the 15 . . . the 10, five and . . . Touchdown! Listen to 'em yell! Friends of the radio audience this touchdown comes to you through courtesy of the Quick-Kick Gasoline Company, sole purchasers of the H. C.-B. C. broadcasting rights."

A La Dit Clapper!

OR THE BRUINS-CANADIENS hockey game at the Garden next Thanksgiving; "Here we are fans in the middle of that refrigerated madness termed hockey at the old B. & M. Depot! Your cheerful little earful, Dit Clapper speaking . . . Maurice Richard (pronounced Ree-chard) is bringing the puck down ice and (Bow!) . . . Well folks, Maurice ain't carrying the puck any more . . . They're carrying Maurice . . . yeah for repairs . . . O zat so! 'Scuse me, folks, Elmer Lach just gave me some lip (Biff) . . . Well, ha! ha! that the end of Elmer's lip.

"Now I'm in the penalty coop. The ref. saw me sock Lach, so the game goes on with the Bruins shorthanded . . . (Pow!) Pardon the interruption, please. Some fan just slapped me with his overshoe and I give him the butt of the old hockey right in the elly bay . . . Same to you Madame! An old girl is giving me the blister now . . . Yeah! You too, lady.

"I'm on the ice again. Toe Blake of the Canadiens is bringing it down (Crash) . . . Ouch! Nuthing much, fans, just a two-inch gash over me right eye . . . I'm taking it up ice now (Sock). That was Butch Bouchard bouncing off my hip and into the crowd . . . Funny I'm in the crowd, too . . . We're both in the crowd (Smack! Bang) and letting each other have it . . . Some fun, hey? We win 4-3 folks! See you after I get sewed up!"

As Teddy Tells It

OR FENWAY PARK NEXT JULY, "Howdy folks. Your announcer is Ted Williams, fresh out of the air corps, speaking from home plate where I'm batting against Bob Feller. Indians are leading 3-2 in the last of the ninth . . . Nice day! Nice crowd! Nice game! Here it comes, bigger than a grapefruit. Boy, will I pickle this one . . . Uh! . . . Well just a foul, folks, one for the customers. A gent in the grandstand busts his straw hat, tears his shirt and bloodies his nose. But he gets it.

"Now Feller heaves the ole apple again, a slow one . . . I swing . . . Oops! I miss . . . Well wadayuh know! I coulda wrote my autograph on that one . . . O. K. smart guy! . . . Not you folks! The Cleveland catcher just give me the bird . . . Leave 'im give me another like that one, smart guy!

"Feller winds up! He unwinds! There's hardly a sound in the big park. The fans is batin' their breath. Suspense reigns supreme. Th' tension is terrific. Here it comes . . . and high on the outside of the plate for a ball . . . Wadayuah mean, yuh big baboon! Pardon me folks! I was talkin' to the umpire, the big bum! . . . C'n yuh imagine him calling that a strike . . . Guess that's all for today folks. Be seein' yuh!"

Strolling Down the Avenue

OR THE B. A. A. MARATHON next April. "Hullo ev'body! This is Johnny Kelly giving you the heel-'n'-toe story of the big race as it . . . uh-huh-uh-huh . . . turns into Beacon st. . . . Gotta gas pain under m'heart like a plumber's blow torch . . . I'm still doggin' . . . Guy douses me with water! Feels like electric needles . . . Uh-huh-uh-huh . . . Coolidge Corner now. M'leadin'.

"Blood's pulsing in my head like blacksmith's hammers. Uh-huh-uh-huh . . . I'm turnin' the heat on now. Got gas bubbles in nuh chest and fog in m'brain as I swing . . uh-huh . . . into Comm'wealth ave . . . gotta hustle . . . there's a guy coming . . . uh-huh . . . fast. Feet's like steppin' on live coals . . . c'n feel the blood squishing with each step . . . uh-huh . . . this broadcast comes to you by courtesy of Anti-Nausea Glucose Tablets."

Winnah'n Still Champeen

OR ANY WRESTLING BOUT any time, "This here's Mike 'Moider'e-me-Dish' Dulch, champeen of the wurld, except'n seven other guys, in me titular match wit' Pickplepuss Dimitroof, the human mattress . . . He gets me in a cissors. Ow! Oooooo! Wow! De agony's sumpin' awful . . . I pull handfuls of fuzz outa his chest and . . . Yeeeow! . . . he hollers wit' pain . . . Holler again, Pickles, near to de mike . . . YEEEOWW! Dat's better!

"Now we is in a pretzel knot, all tangled up . . . CUBS BACK TO CATALINA

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (INS)—Vice-President and General Manager James Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs announced yesterday that the National League champions will head for their training camp at Catalina Island, Cal., on Feb 17.

Southworth Signs for 3 Years as Tribe Boss

By BILL GRIMES

So Billy the Kid is back with the Braves as manager. Yippee! Though the timing on the Southworth announcement left somet hing to be desired what with the election news all over the paper, one must admit the Braves choice an admirable one. Southworth's managerial record is the best in N. L. history.

In seven seasons with the Cards, only five of them full seasons, he finished first thrice (won two World Series), second twice, third once and fourth once. His clubs have won 620 games, lost 346 for a .642 average.

This greatest managerial feat was performed in '42 when the champion Dodgers had such a commanding lead in August that everybody in the league voted them in—all except Southworth and his men. The Cards not only came on to win in a glorious stretch drive but swept over the Yanks in the World Series.

His return to Boston (he captained the Braves in the early '20s) may be the fore-runner of bigger and better announcements.

Remember the row last spring when the Cooper brothers learned Marty Marion was getting $13,250 and they were getting a mere $12,000? Mort Cooper jumped the club in Boston, finally was traded here. Walker Cooper was inducted into the Navy and at Great Lakes where he caught Bob Feller expressed no desire to return to the Cards.

It seems, on the face of it, that Southworth probably sided with the Coopers in their financial argument with Sam Breadon. If so, it is logical to assume that Walker Cooper will follow Mort Cooper here, and since Marty Marion and Ray Saunders are also said to be on the block, "Mr. Shortstop" and the Cards' first baseman also may be headed for Boston.

Why not? Louis Perini, Joe Maney and Guido Rugo have plenty of shekels. They're determined to have a pennant winner. And wouldn't the Coopers, Marion and Sanders give the Braves a pen-

Dyer Card Boss

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7 (INS)—Eddie Dyer, former manager of the St. Louis farm system, was named manager of the Cardinals today. He succeeded Billy Southworth. Dyer quit baseball more than a year ago to go into the oil business with three brothers in Houston, Tex.

Jenkins and Foster Available at Harvard

By HERB FINNEGAN

A bolt of sunshine permeated Harvard's football picture today when it was learned that halfback Marvin Jenkins and tackle Howie Foster had been pronounced physically fit for Saturday's game with Kings Point. Yet all was gloom a moment later when Earl Brown called to say that Johnny Corbisiero would be in the Marines' lineup against the Crimson.

Cordisiero was a '43 all cholastic fullback at Medford High. He matriculated at Notre Dame in '44. So sensational was he as a freshman that he was understudy to Elmer Angsman. Bostonians remember him as scoring against Dartmouth when the Irish routed the same Earl Brown's team.

Dick Harlow

Earl was coaching at Dartmouth last year.

Dodisiero, has seen sea duty at Okinawa since then. He missed Kings Point last two games because of a foot injury.

Now Earl is bringing him to Boston as co-star with McGrane and Pfohl and Wise in the backfield, a quarter that is expected to flood the stadium with passes.

Though Jenkins was the standout on the Harvard 1944 informals he will not break into the regular backfield this week. Dick Harlow will stand pat on Tennant, Flynn, Roche and Cowen who performed so nobly in the team's 25-0 victory over Coast Guard. But Jenkins will be ready for the Yale game, and that's the game Harvard wants to win more than any other.

Nor will Foster start Saturday, though he did start Harvard's first three games. John Coan, Swampscott lad, did well against CG and is expected to get the call.

Thus Harvard will stand pat with Di Luzio and Champion, ends; Fisher and Coan, tackles; Dewey and Le Bart, guards; Faber, center; Tennant, qb; Flynn, rhb; Roche, lhb, and Cowen, fb.

BOSTON COLLEGE—Willie Di Rosa, 1941 freshman fullback at BC, will start at that position for the Eagles against Villanova Saturday night under the Shibe Park arcs. De Rosa evidently lost none of his talent in his three years of Army duty, and has given the team a decided lift. The Eagles have lost end Sal Del Prete and back Fran Collins to the Army since their Kings Point game but have regained end Paul Murphy. BC will line up against Villanova in this fashion: ends, Graham and Murphy, tackles Twomey and Giordano, guards Sammartino and King, qb McMorrow, lhb Carney, rhb Bennett, fb De Rosa.

YANKS—Herb Kopf staged a scrimage at Fens Stadium today and as a result was expected to change his starting line for Sunday's game with the Redskins in Washington. He was dissatisfied with the offensive work of his linemen against the Lions, especially down-the-field . . . Bob Davis surprised one and all by taking part in practice, two days after his leg injury by the Lions. He'll be okay Sunday

Ex-Navy Coach Larson, 46, Dies

ATLANTA, Nov. 7 (AP)—Col. Emory Ellsworth (Swede) Larson, 46, of the U. S. Marine Corps, formerly football coach at the U. S. Naval Academy, died here today.

Col. Larson was here on a visit in the course of his naval duties. He was stricken a few days ago and died in the Naval Air Station dispensary.

Mrs. Larson came to Atlanta on receipt of news that her husband was ill. She was with him when he died.

Hagg, Andersson Face Pro Charges

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 7 (AP)—Charges of professionalism have been leveled against a number of Swedish track stars, including Gunder Hagg and Arne Anderson, and a meeting of the Swedish A. A. has been called tonight to investigate them.

One newspaper, Expressen, stated that Hagg paid taxes last year on about $7000 and Adersson on $3000.

If the stars are ruled professionals, Andersson's trip to the U. S. this winter would be cancelled.

Skip Sherlock Coaches' Ageless Wonder

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Did you ever realize that Coach Edward "Skip" Sherlock of Hyde Park High School is the dean of the nation's interscholastic mentors? Well, it's a fact that next to Alonzo Stagg of the U. of Pacific, Coach Sherlock has been on the job longer than any fellow in the entire country.

Still, Skip—less a few more hairs but always with his wad of tobacco—is out there on the Hyde Park practice site every afternoon showing the boys how they should take out an opposing tackle.

And Skip was doing the same thing way back in 1899 when he had his first offer of a coaching job. He was going to Harvard then but he took over the Boston English team to set up new scoring records in the old interscholastic league. Veteran fans will remember him then on the baseball team with pitcher Walter Clarkson.

Skip's colored career carried him to the Volkmann School in 1901 (now the Noble-Greenough School), to Dorchester High in 1903, to Boys Latin in Baltimore in 1904, to Mercersberg, Pa., in 1907-08-09, to Rindge Tech in 1910-11-12, to Commerce until 1925 when he was drafted to his present post. And he's been turning out great teams there since, teams that have been well-versed in football.

It was a personal satisfaction to Skip when the Iron Major (the late of Coach Frank Cavanaugh) was produced. For as the names of that great Boston College team were read off, Coach Sherlock could point to three members—Con O'Brien, Leo McElaney and Tom Swan—as his pupils from Commerce. The three had joined the list of football greats, developed under Coach Sherlock.

How many veterans can remember Jim McCormick, capt. of Princeton; John 'Babe' Brown, capt. of Navy; Ray Bennett, and Nat Whitmore of Dartmouth; Norm Beardsley of Colgate; Dexter Verry of Penn. State or Dex Draper of Penn? Even the youngsters have heard of Bob Fisher, former capt. and coach of Harvard. They were all with Skip.

Coach Sherlock was using the original T when he first masterminded a football team. Now, he's sending his boys through single wing and he's still young enough to experiment with the double wing with a team he feels is one of the best in the city ranks. It's heavy and it's fast,

Hyde Park has its weight at the tackles this fall with Les Monarch, 205, and Joe Amara, 245, holding off the opposition. At guards, Coach Sherlock has Joe McAllister, 163, and Jim O'Brien, 170, ready to start today against Brandeis Vocational with John Trovato, 185-pound converted fullback, at center. And Coach Sherlock insists that Big John will be making his name in college ranks.

Co-captain Jack Fernands, 150, and Ed "Moe" DiSanto, 142, give Hyde Park plenty of speed on the wings.

The Parkers' only other veteran, co-captain Don Shute, 165, handles the kicking and play-calling in the backfield. He works with Bill Burke, 161-pound lhb, John Crowley, passing 182-pound rhb, and either Bill Burke, 161, Martin Renzi, 160, or Gerry Bagley, 175, at fullback and John Koftske, fullback. The entire outfit is a senior group with the exception of Renzi and Bagley.

Other Hyde Park players who will see action include: ends—Dave Benson, Tony Gibotti, Pete Freeman; tackles—Charlie Maginnis, Bob Skinner; guards—Ed Fallon, Bob Lanata; center—John Houlihan; backs—John Crowley, itchel Hayes, Chandler Phinney, Frank Shaw, Bernie Surette, and Ed Walsh.

Southworth Will Give Braves Winning Spark

By JACK CONWAY

BILLY SOUTHWORTH is one of the greatest managers in baseball, and now that he has been signed to lead the Braves it is a certainty that Boston will gain new baseball prestige and glory. Southworth's feat of winning three National League pennants for the Cardinals is proof of his ability as a pilot.

The Braves are reported to have agreed to pay Southworth $25,000 a year. He should prove well worth this amount of money. His skill as a manager should lift the Braves out of the second division and eventually have the club fighting for the National League pennant.

Billy Southworth

For Southworth to succeed he must, of course, have the necessary baseball material. Returning service players and stars like Marion, Cardinals' shortstop, who may be purchased for $100,000 to $125,000, will give Southworth the playing strength he requires to make good.

Southworth first proved his ability as a manager when with Rochester, one of the Cardinals' chain of farm clubs. He was with Rochester in 1940, but two years later found him winning his first National League pennant for the Cardinals.

The winning of championships then became a habit for Southworth as he later won two more pennants. Southworth took over control of the Cardinals at the time the famous old "Gas House Gang" was passing into history. Southworth never approved of the rough and tumble style of baseball that had won fame for the "Gas House Gang."

In baseball, Southworth does everything in a systematic manner. There are the long practice drills, sessions at which plays are discussed and the careful supervision of farm clubs which nurse along young players until they are ready for the big leagues.

SOUTHWORTH returns to the Braves as manager after having played right field for the club in the early 20's when Fred Mitchell was manager. Southworth has always liked Boston and he has many friends in this city.

It was at Braves Field that the late Major Billy Southworth, Jr. wore his first baseball uniform. Billy, Jr. was mascot of the Braves and had the same keen interest in the national pastime that his dad possessed.

Southworth played brilliantly for the Braves, while he also secured his share of base hits. At the time the club was nominated by the New York Giants and Southworth was finally signed by John McGraw.

Baseball men as well as the public have always had the highest respect for Southworth's ability as a leader. When this writer held a poll a few years ago to name the leading manager, Southworth finished second to Joe McCarthy.

The signing of Southworth means the Braves have gone big time. There is no longer any make believe about their effort to go places. In the re-building of the club, the 1945 Braves, a sorry looking outfit that could not have made a respectable showing in minor league baseball a few years ago, will be scrapped.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Card Stars May Come to Braves

nant nucleus with fellows like Fernandez and West returning?

Southworth will have the choice of naming his assistants. That means Del Bissonette, who took over the Braves after Bob Coleman was unloaded last summer, will be among the missing at Braves Field.

"But he'll remain in our organization," said General Manager John Quinn when Southworth met the press at 1 p. m. today.

Southworth is an "able, experienced manager," as Quinn pointed out, and it is a treat to watch him in spring training. He conducts practice much as Dick Harlow does his football drills, with time charts on every player. He's a master of detail and a scrapper.

In addition, he's a gentleman, well-liked by press and fandom. Whether winning or losing, he's always affable in the clubhouse.

How did the Braves get him? Well, Perini talked to him at the World Series, made him such a tempting offer that "Breadon refused to stand in his way," and that's all there was to it.

Breadon never did consider managers invaluable. He dumped McKechnie after winning a pennant, did likewise with Gabby Street. Now he's named Eddie Dyer from the Houston club to succeed Southworth, and Dyer better deliver—or else.

And the recalcitrant Braves, those who still remain from the group that drove Coleman ratraps, they'll toe the line—or else.

Southworth received $20,000 from the Cards. Guessing is that Perini is giving him $10,000 more, perhaps $35,000. That is said to be Joe Cronin's salary, and Southworth's record surpasses that of Cronin . . . Billy Southworth, Jr., was killed in a plane crash in Flushing Bay, N. Y., last Feb. 15. His body wasn't recovered until August which made it a sad, brooding season for his dad who admired him. The youngster had been a grand ball player at Rochester, a grand warrior . . . Bill, Sr., batted .307, .322 and .319 in his three seasons with the Braves. He starred in the 1926 World Series with the Cards . . . And for a change won't it be nice watching the Braves try for that extra base? Southworth keeps 'em running.

Allan Stanley To Rejoin Pics

Coach Hago Harrington of the Boston Olympics today announced that Allan Stanley of Timmons, Ont., who played with the Pics two seasons ago before leaving to enter the Canadian Navy, has been discharged and is on his way here to join the team.

Stanley, now 19 years old and weighing 178 pounds, was a standout at defense and was regarded as one of the Olympics with the brightest future. Standing six feet, one inch as a seventeen-year-old, Allan was a capable rusher and defendable rear-guard.

At present the Pics are marking time for the beginning of their first road trip on Friday, when they will play the Washington Lions in the Nation's Capital. On Saturday they will face the Philadelphia Falcons in Phillie.

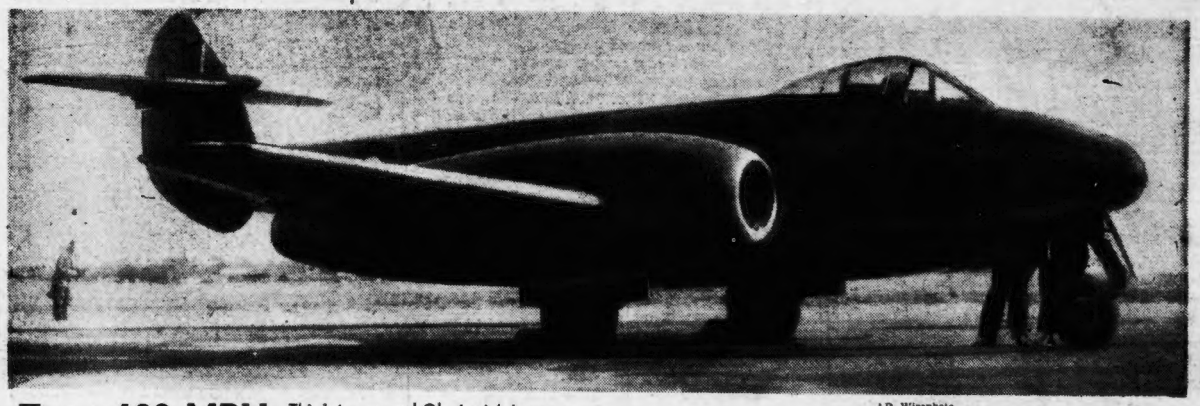
Braves Sign Southworth for 3 Years

STORY ON PAGE 35



AP Wirephoto

Tops 600 MPH—This jet-powered Gloster Meteor was raced over a 1.86-mile course four times today at Herne Bay, England, at an average speed of 606 miles per hour, as unofficial world record for aircraft. Pilots of the craft were (below) Eric Greenwood and RAF Group Capt. Hugh J. Wilson. (Story on Page 16.)

Veteran Coach Peps Hyde Park Squad—The intricate knowledge gained in 46 years of coaching enables Coach "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park mentor (right), to give his squad valuable advice before they take to the field this afternoon against Brandeis Vocational School. Sherlock is joined in the talkfest by MM 2c Bob Durkin, who captained the team in 1940.
